Henry Ford To Buy Railroad, Report

RUMOR DEAL TO CONTROL MID-WEST SYSTEM

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Road Issues Denial Of Ownership Change

MINNEAPOLIS, April 14.—Henry Ford is negotiating for the purchase of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, it was reported today in local and eastern financial circles.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer wants control of the road, it was said, in order to give him his own transportation system throughout the northwest and the middle west, where the market is heaviest for his automobiles and tractors.

The transaction would involve more than $500,000,000, it was stated, as the estimated valuation of the railroad is in excess of that sum.

Denial By Officials

CHICAGO, April 14.—Officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad here today flatly denied reports from Minneapolis that Henry Ford contemplated purchase of that line.

"Nothing to it at all," was the comment of the president of the road, with offices here, when his attention was called to the report by the International News Service this afternoon.

Not True, Is Claim

DETROIT, April 14.—"There is absolutely no truth in the report from Minneapolis that Henry Ford has started negotiations to buy the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad," International News Service was informed at Ford offices this afternoon.

Location of Depot Is Subject of Conference

Mayor Spencer Robinson, City Manager W. H. Reeves, Secretary E. F. Sanders, Capt. D. Ripley Jackson and George B. Karr, representing the depot committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and Roy Kent, C. D. Lusby and J. M. Wilson, as members of a special committee, went to Los Angeles this morning to hold a conference with Superintendent F. H. Williams of the Southern Pacific Co. relative to the proposed site of the new depot that is to be erected by the railroad here. It is the desire of the Glendale representatives to have the depot located on what is regarded as a more suitable site than that selected by the company, and this will form the subject matter of the discussion today.

Hollywood Defeats Glendale's Debaters

United States should recognize the present government of Mexico.

This fact was established in the high school auditorium last night by debaters from Hollywood high school. Glendale Union high school represented the negative through Miss Kathryn McNary of 805 South Central avenue, Eagle Rock, and Horace Anderson of 131 West Magnolia avenue. They were coached by Harold Brewster. The score was 198 to 182.

This debate, which is the last one to be held in Glendale this season, was in the Southern California League.

Surgeon Saves Parts Of Boy's Two Hands

"Billy" Bergstrom, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bergstrom of 3528 Casitas avenue, who got his hands caught in some hoisting machinery near the Ivanhoe bridge yesterday morning, is getting along nicely, according to a report from the Glendale Research Hospital. Dr. T. C. Young found it unnecessary to amputate both hands but will be able to save the little finger and thumb on the right hand and the thumb, forefinger and a portion of the middle finger on the left hand.

WILL FORM CABINET

STOCKHOLM, April 14.—King Gustav V today formally requested M. Trygger, conservative leader, to form a new cabinet.

SCORES DROWN IN BIG STORM

Rip Tides Cause Traffic Tangle In L. A. Harbor

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Swirling rip tides in Los Angeles harbor, believed to have been caused by a violent earthquake, perhaps allied with the tidal waves reported from the Hawaiian islands, caused a spectacular traffic mix-up among five big freighters and a number of smaller boats in the narrowest part of the channel early today. Serious damage was narrowly averted.

Shore boatmen reported the rip tides in the harbor were more powerful and uncertain even than those which followed in the wake of the big earthquake in South America last fall.

Since 10 o'clock last night, the tides have been running strongly first one way and then another and extra precautions have been taken by the harbor officials to guard against damage to shipping by warning pilots and others taking vessels in and out of the harbor.

Early today five big freight steamers met at the narrowest part of the channel. The Humboldt, in bound from San Francisco, and the Mundelta, in bound from New York, were involved in the affair with the Cathwood and Kingsbury, out bound for San Francisco, and the Swift Light, a tanker just clearing for Philadelphia.

The Mundelta was caught in a rip tide and carried towards the Culburra, a wooden boat berthed at the Southern Pacific slip and before she could be righted sideswiped the Culburra, splintering the decks of the latter and perhaps sprung some seams in the hold. The exact extent of the damage has not been ascertained. The Mundelta then crashed into a lumber barge anchored just off the Pacifico, a lumber steamer.

WIND DRIVES MANY SHIPS TO SHORES

Korean and Japanese Coast Lines Hit; Tidal Waves At Hawaiian Islands

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—A storm of marked energy today was central about 400 miles west of Humboldt Bay, the United States weather bureau reported today.

It probably will move far enough eastward in the next twenty-four hours to cause rain in the northern half of California and in Washington and Oregon, the weather experts said.

TOKIO, April 14.—Upwards of 100 fishermen are believed to have been drowned in one of the severest windstorms off the Korean and Japanese coasts. Already thirty bodies have been recovered on the southern shores of Korea and Japan.

Ships were driven ashore and many prefectures reported that homes had been swept away in great numbers by the force of the storm. Officers from the home office have been dispatched to Korea to report on the extent of the damage there which is feared to have been great.

Six American destroyers expecting to visit Yokohama were delayed by the storm.

The wind in Tokio bay attained a speed of twenty-four meters a second or about forty-seven miles an hour. The average wind speed here averages from two to nine meters per second.

Big Tidal Waves

HONOLULU, April 14.—No word had been received today as to the center of the earthquakes which late yesterday caused a tidal wave in the Hawaiian islands.

Two tidal waves were noticed on Kahului, Hilo and Honolulu bays, the highest being at Kahului where the water reached a maximum height of four feet washing over the highway in two places. Some boats were washed ashore but no damage was reported.

Many Watch Spectacle

At Hilo two waves were noted in the mouth of Wailoa river but they reached only a maximum height of one foot. However, hundreds of spectators crowded bridges to watch the spectacle as light sampans bobbing on the river ran out to sea as the waves receded.

The maximum rise in Honolulu harbor was only eight inches. Canoes were carried ashore and left high and dry but no damage done.

Irish Leader Slips Through Ring of Foes

DUBLIN, April 14.—Austin Stack, one of Eamon de Valera's republican lieutenants, was captured near Clonmel today. Stack was originally a member of the Irish delegation that negotiated the Anglo-Irish treaty in London, but later he deserted the Free State forces, throwing in his lot with the irregulars.

Despite vigorous search by Free State troops, during which airplanes were employed, Eamon de Valera has apparently escaped from the Tipperary mountains, where he was hiding, according to unofficial information received at Free State military headquarters today.

The whole mountain district was swept from end to end by six columns of Free State troops under General Prout. Many secret hiding places were found and a number of republican irregulars were captured, but de Valera was not among them.

General Prout sent word he did not believe a single irregular is hiding anywhere in the mountains.

"They are swept clean," said the Free State commandant.

QUICK ACTION IN SLAYING HEARINGS

Sudden Justice Comes to Defendants; Seven Others Now Await Trial

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 14.—A new brand of "lightning justice" was written across American legal records by the 'mountain court" here today as a result of the third conviction in five days in West Virginia's sensational blackhand murder trials.

With a number of deputy sheriffs and police on guard, the three convicted murderers are held in the county jail awaiting sentences of death for their share in the "blackhand" campaign of violence, terror and sudden death that left a bloody trail across West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Kills 17, Is Charge

The trio tried and convicted on first degree murder charges—all within five days—are "Trick" Salamante, Philip "Big Nose" Connizarot and Richard "Dapper Dick" Ferri, Italians.

Ferri, the last man convicted, was the accredited leader of the band, but the statement charged that all three rose through infamous "blood degrees" to be supermurderers in the ranks of the Camorra by their toll of human lives.

It was said "Dapper Dick," so-called for his faultless dress, had slain seventeen men to win the highest honors given by the Camorra in this country.

PRIEST TO TRIAL

HELSINGFORS, April 14.—Despite the serious illness of Patriarch Tikhon, head of the Greek church of Russia, he will be placed on trial Monday, charged with conspiring against the soviet government and refusing to obey soviet decrees, said a dispatch from Moscow.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE, CHARGE

Japan Insults U. S. Admiral Anderson by Lack of Publicity, Claim

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO, April 14.—Charging a "conspiracy of silence" amounting to no less than an insult to Admiral Edwin Anderson, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, prominent Americans in Tokio, led by the Japanese Advertiser, an American newspaper, today condemned the action of the entire Tokio press in failing to mention the slightest details of Anderson's stay of a week in Yokohama.

Admiral Anderson's visit to Japan follows that of Admiral Leveson, chieftain of the British Asiatic fleet, and the contrast in greeting extended was marked.

Admiral Leveson was given an audience by the prince regent, and accorded all honors by the press, his movements being pictured daily in full detail.

Offer Explanation

When attention was called today to officials that Admiral Anderson had not been granted audience by the prince regent, the explanation was offered that the court was in mourning over Prince Kitashirakawas' death in France when Admiral Anderson arrived. The prince regent departed for Formosa, it was added, immediately after the period of mourning was finished, making it impossible to arrange the audience.

TWO MEET DEATH

BERLIN, April 14.—Two men were killed and two others seriously injured when an airplane flying overhead during the ceremonies at the opening of the Temple Hoefer airport, crashed to the ground. The pilot of the machine and a Berlin official, who was with him, were instantly killed.

Wilson Opposes Harding Method Of Joining Court

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 14.—From his quiet red brick house in S street, where he keeps his finger on the pulse of public and political affairs to a far greater degree than is generally known, came the voice of Woodrow Wilson today, announcing his disapproval of America joining the permanent court of international justice under the program of conditions prepared by President Harding, Secretary Hughes and Secretary Herbert Hoover.

The United States should either go in or stay out unconditionally, Mr. Wilson believes—thus maintaining the identical position he assumed toward the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations covenant during the memorable senate fight of three years ago.

Mr. Wilson's views became known today through the medium of a letter written to Representative Arthur B. Rouse, Democrat, of Kentucky. It was in reply to a communication from Representative Rouse, requesting his views anent the conditional adherence to the court proposed by Mr. Harding in his message to the senate in its closing days.

Workers Place Funds In First Labor Bank

NEW YORK, April 14.—Thousands of union men and women filled Union Square today and celebrated the opening of the first labor bank in New York — the Amalgamated Bank. Bands blared and crowds milled around the square several hours.

The institution, organized by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, opened with insured success, 900 depositors having placed $250,000 in its safes before it started business. It has a capital and surplus of $350,000.

While the bank is open to the general public, it is primarily for the interest of union members, whose enterprises it will assist.

Dividends are limited to ten per cent and all in excess of that will be paid to depositors.

SUGAR PRICE INQUIRY BY HARDING

President Is Determined to Get at Bottom of Big Boost, Declared

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—While sugar reached record post-war prices, President Harding hastily directed the department of justice to probe the situation as deeply as possible to determine the cause.

He called Assistant Attorney General Seymour, already charged with making an inquiry into the gouge, into a conference with his cabinet.

Following this conference he let it be known that any action taken will be through the legal agency of the government. Preliminary reports of the tariff commission, it was intimated, show that the tariff is not to blame for the unprecedented rise in retail prices that has taken millions from the pockets of the consumers.

Alleges Gambling

The department of commerce, it was understood, notified the president that it was not an economic condition with which it can deal and said that the spectacular rise must be attributed to gambling.

As the government planned to act, Basil Manly, director of the People's Legislative Service, who made the original expose of the cause of the first jump in the price of sugar, said that the department of justice is itself at fault for the recent rise.

Irish Sympathizers Plan London Attack

LONDON, April 14—Documents indicating that Irish republican sympathizers in London planned to attack light, power and subway stations, attempt the delivery of Irish prisoners from jails and perhaps try to assassinate high British officials were seized by the police today in widespread raids throughout London.

TURN DOWN GERMANY'S PROMISES

France and Belgium Will Not Quit Ruhr Until Reparations Paid

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service

PARIS, April 14.—France and Belgium will not evacuate the Ruhr until Germany pays the reparations demanded of her, it was officially announced here today at the conclusion of the conference between Premier Poincaire of France and Premier Theunis of Belgium.

The following communique was issued at the foreign office after the conference adjourned:

"Two governments confirm the Brussels resolution not to accept Germany's simple promises. France and Belgium will not evacuate the Ruhr except progressively as Germany fulfills the reparations obligations imposed upon her."

Officials said France and Belgium were in absolute accord, and that if there had been any misunderstanding over the mysterious visit of Louis Loucheu to London, it was now cleared away.

Sterner Measures

It is understood the two premiers and the other French and Belgian officials taking part in the meeting covered a wide range of subjects. They decided, in view of the attitude of the German government and increasing German sabotage in parts of the Ruhr, to put more restrictive measures into effect.

Premier Poincaire and Premier Theunis agreed that the Ruhr administration should be tightened. They said the Franco-Belgian program would be carried out to the letter, and that Germany, if she makes any settlement proposals at all, must make them directly to Paris, or else to all the interested allied forces—France, Belgium, Italy and Great Britain.

Foil Payroll Bandits In Desperate Battle

DETROIT, April 14. — Three occupants of a Charles B. Bohn Foundry company payroll car, were shot, one possibly fatally wounded, and at least two bandits were wounded, in a furious revolver battle today in which four bandits failed to obtain a $12,000 payroll.

William Bohn, 35, employment manager, was shot behind the ear and is believed to be dying. William Weakley, assistant employment, manager, was shot in the shoulder, and Henry Sevart, 45, a guard on the car, suffered two minor wounds.

G. H. Ogden, 29, paymaster of the company, was the only man in the car who escaped uninjured. His necktie was shot off.

Municipal Mystery! Mayor Gets Gold Ring

Mayor Spencer Robinson this morning got a ring. It wasn't a telephone ring either, but an all-wool gold one set with two large garnets. The mystery is where it came from. It was received by messenger, accompanied by a note which explained that it was a token of appreciation of the vocal ability of the "Singing Mayor of Glendale" and his good work in behalf of the city.

Young, Mr. Whelon has charge of street assessments in the city engineering department. He is taking half of his vacation now, so as not to interrupt the efficiency of his work.

Mrs. R. L. Morrow of 328 West Patterson avenue, entertained Thursday afternoon a number of friends at a Bridge party. Mrs. Sam Garroway was awarded the prize for high score. Those present were Mrs. Hal Hammer of Ramona Acres, Mrs. Griffith Jones of South Pasadena, Mrs. Gordon Baker, Mrs. Harry Lanham and Mrs. William Allen all of Santa Monica, and Mrs. Sam Garroway and Mrs. C. W. Cawson of Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Loomis and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clarke, former neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peckham, in Bryn Mawr, Chicago, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peckham at their home, 615 North Central avenue earlier in the week. A motor trip to Riverside was one of the diversions of the visit. Today the three couples will motor to Riverside as the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Otis who were also neighbors in Chicago.

Mrs. George Cheney, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meeker, of 1320 East Colorado, the past week, returned to her home in San Bernardino on Thursday. A pleasant feature of her visit was the celebration of Mrs. Meeker's birthday anniversary on Saturday. The table was very pretty with its decorations of orange blossoms and sweet peas and an orange cake with the candle revealed the significance of the occasion to the surprised hostess. Mrs. Meeker received many beautiful birthday gifts.

DOES OSTEOPATHY CURE EVERYTHING?
No.

Osteopathy is not offered as a panacea for all human ills. It is not guaranteed to prevent puncture and keep the water from freezing in the radiator of your automobile.

You believe in adjustment for your car, but you do not expect that it will, even though perfectly adjusted, run without gasoline and oil. You do not expect that adjustment will prevent collision or destruction by fire or loss by theft. It does not mean that the car will never need paint or repairs from accident and wear, but you are sure that a car that is kept properly adjusted will give better service, develop more power and last longer than one that is allowed to go without adjustment. Do you believe in mechanics for your car? Then you believe in the principles of Osteopathy for your body, even though you may not understand the anatomy and physiology of your body as well as you do that of your car.

Let me declare the parable. Likewise this does not mean that if you have osteopathy put your body in perfect adjustment and maintain it at 100% efficiency that it will run without food, water, rest, sleep, exercise, etc. No. You must use common sense after it is adjusted, just as you do with your car or any other mechanical and chemical machine. However, the Osteopath is a master mechanic, the engineer of the human body and is competent to advise you regarding your diet and other habits of life, and, if you choose one who is four-square and well rounded out educationally and has outgrown the petty childish prejudices of ignorance, he will advise you intelligently and honestly if your case is or is not Osteopathic.

COMMENT
That's All

Gallows Still In Use
Faith In Human Nature
Governor's Good Work
Is Conan Doyle Daft?

By Gil A. Cowan

CAPITAL punishment will continue in California for at least two more years and perhaps permanently, notwithstanding the wail of the sob-sisters, for the assembly judiciary committee tabled the proposed measure.

And at the very time of its consideration the courts in El Centro were convicting two youths of a most heinous murder of an insurance man on the desert between Niland and Blythe. It is too bad that both of these boys are not hanged.

Campbell and Davis, the convicted murderers, gave no quarter to Leslie Nichols, their benefactor, when he was bending over a tire of his car, in order that all of them might continue safely out of the sand hills of Imperial county.

Society should not offer any escape from such cold-blooded atrocities. Were it not inhumane they should me made to bear crosses to the scene of the crime and there be nailed to them in order that the vultures might sally forth and destroy even the bodies of such beasts.

If you have ever traveled alone over the desert stretches you will appreciate what faith in human nature is necessary. You will meet strangers under most unfavorable circumstances and to refuse them a drink of water, or a ride, or even a helping hand is little less than brutal.

At the same time your faith must not be violated by those who accept your generosity. Campbell and Davis were traitors of humanity which is far worse than traitors to state or nation.

In the elimination of the Sonoma Industrial Farm for Delinquent Women, Governor Richardson has done one of the big things of his career. Fortunately, this expensive social experiment aided in eliminating itself from the budget when the main building burned.

Some of the women were removed to the Napa asylum. They raised a riot because they were not permitted to have their cigarettes. The doctors in charge had to forcibly inform them that the state was interested in their cure and not their former mode of pleasurable living.

It had cost the state about $3,000 per inmate to care for these prostitutes and dope fiends at Sonoma—more than the average citizen makes in a year. And it was estimated that if California took care of all of its delinquent women it would cost more than the total combined revenues of the state.

Therefore, we must agree that the governor dealt efficiently with an economic problem, which is not so social after all.

The appeal of the department of education for $100,000 additional for free text books, which is now before the senate finance committee, may be given heed. It is the belief of the writer that the theory of free texts is wrong, yet if the state is going to provide the books it should do the best in its power.

And the present texts are sadly out of date. In fact, our whole school system in California is a disjointed, disrupted educational machine, although it is very efficient from a political standpoint.

The resolution by Assemblyman Stow calling for a thorough investigation needs be made by hard headed men who will tackle the problem with the idea of getting to the facts and presenting them to the next legislature for remedial action.

C. K. McClatchy in his "Private Think" column of the Sacramento Bee, writes:

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle sure has gone daft.

In New York the other night he showed to great crowds "spirit photographs" of hundreds of soldier dead.

While Doyle's recently twisted mentality may have hypnotised him into the belief that these were and are real, undoubtedly they are clever frauds.

* * *

It will be remembered that Doyle, in the Strand Magazine a year or so ago, furnished an illustrated article to prove that fairies do exist and can be "photographed." The "photographs" were "taken" by a young woman in an interior English county.

Doyle took the alleged "negatives" to a well-known and reliable photographer, who refused to develop them, assuring Doyle they were "transparent frauds."

Of course, the author would not believe this; so he conveyed the "negatives" to a photographer as deep in spiritualism as himself, who "developed" them.

* * *

Only the other day this misguided novelist declared an "evil element," brought into being by Egyptian occultism, or by the spirit of Tut-Ankh-Amen, caused the death of Lord Carnarvon.

Doyle had hundreds of hysterics the other night at New York when he showed the alleged "spirit photographs" of the numerous soldier dead.

If this fad increases, he and the Sir Oliver Lodges and others will have a goodly percentage of the weak natures of this country praying, like the Scotchman, to be delivered "frae witches, warlocks, an' wurricoes, an' a 'things which gang bump i' th' nicht."

SOCIAL EVENTS

Music Section

"Federation Day" of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, at the home of Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, 224 West Doran street, yesterday, was largely attended and was marked by the interest and enthusiasm which is so characteristic of this organization.

During the business session over which Mrs. Warren Roberts, the curator of the section, presided, announcements were made of several coming events. A letter from Mrs. Frank Ayars, corresponding secretary of the Tuesday Afternoon club, expressed the thanks of the club for the gift of the grand piano for the new clubhouse.

A telegram of greeting and congratulation from Mrs. Cecil Frankel, national chairman of extension, was also read, as follows:

"Hearty greetings. Regret not being able to be with you. Congratulate you on your splendid achievements. Make every effort to send delegate to national biennial in June. California must have large representation. Am depending on your co-operation."

Mrs. Roberts spoke with pride of the complimentary greetings she received at Santa Ana at the recent convention after the reports of Mrs. Julius J. Luedke from the music section and Mrs. F. B. Morse of the music club had been given to the convention.

Mrs. Allan Dunlop gave a very interesting and full account of the convention proceedings on Thursday. Mrs. Dora L. Gibson was to have reported for Friday, but was unable to be present.

Mrs. Roberts then introduced Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, who presented the program of the day. Before introducing the speaker and special guest, Mrs. Ella Duffield, chairman of the junior club work, Mrs. Jones in a brief review sketched the work that has been done in Glendale. Mrs. Frank Arnold reported for the juvenile, and Mrs. Chas. Parker for the junior organizations.

Mrs. Duffield, who is a well-known musician and composer of children's songs, spoke most interestingly of the work being accomplished by the juveniles. She stated that she is putting on the radio two programs by the juniors each week during the evening story hour. Mrs. Duffield also delighted all by singing two songs of her own composition, "If I Were a Sunbeam" and a "Dutch Lullaby."

Miss Lois Welch, a talented young musician, played two harp numbers, "Prayer" and the "Dance of the Gnomes." Little Marguerite Chappell pleased all with an arrangement of the "Sextette" from "Lucia" (Englemann), and "Songster in the Boughs" (Helm), on the piano.

During the social hour delicious refreshments of ice cream and home-made cake were served by the hostesses of the day.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"June Madness," which shows at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today, depicts the madcap adventure of a sprightly miss, played by Viola Dana, who runs away from her own wedding ceremony, leaving a million-dollar bridegroom flat and speechless, while she cavorts off with the orchestra leader.

In addition, Saturday's bill contains five acts of standard vaudeville, among them some distinct novelties.

Starting tomorrow (Sunday), a great picture comes to the Glendale Theatre, a strong story of the sea, that ran as a Saturday Evening Post serial. Ben Ames Williams is the author, Irvin V. Willat the director. The title of the yarn is "All the Brothers Were Valiant."

If you ever loved the sea for its great passions, and the men who sail the sea for their great hearts, gripped in the sway of those passions, here is a film that will thrill you through and through.

MOTION PICTURE THEATRE STARTS

First Program in Tujunga's Amusement Center to Be Given Tonight

The opening of Tujunga's first motion picture theatre is to be marked by a general observance by everyone. Everything is in readiness for the first fade-in tonight, when several prominent Tujungans will make speeches preceding the program. Following will be the 'Kentucky Derby," featuring Reginald Denny, and an International Newsreel educational feature. Mrs. B. B. Reynolds will preside at the piano, which assures an excellent musical program.

Mr. Perronnet has made every effort to complete every detail of the building in time and his hard work has resulted in a very well appointed show house. He is an experienced motion picture exhibitor and will be able to secure high class features from all the big producers. An entire change of program will be made three times each week.

After the prayer meeting Wednesday night the Tujunga Community church officials inspected plans for the addition to be built to the church. Several plans were submitted and considered, and the final selection will be left to a vote of the congregation. The drive for new members is already under way.

Thank Edison Co.

At a meeting of the Verdugo Hills Community Easter Service committee it was voted to continue the organization, although there is no no further work for it for some time. All work of the commitee has been well and efficiently done, but they will remain organized to work out plans for a bigger and better Easter service on Mt. McGroarty next year.

Miss Zoe Gilbert, secretary, was instructed to tender a vote of thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for their efforts to secure the permanent lighting of the cross by placing it within the lighting district of Tujunga. Miss Gilbert wrote the following letter, which was sent to the Southern California Edison Electric Company as a special vote of thanks for their much- appreciated work in placing the wires and other work in connection with the illumination of the cross:

Mr. W. A. Wallaber, Dist. Mgr.
Southern California Edison Co.,
Pasadena, California.

Dear Sir:—On behalf of the community, I wish to extend our thanks for the excellent work done by your company in lighting the cross on Mt. McGroarty for the Easter services and which added so greatly to the success of the undertaking. We certainly appreciate the kindness and courtesy shown us on that occasion and sincerely thank you.

Very truly yours,
ZOE M. GILBERT,
Secretary of Community Easter Service Committee.

Praise Glendale Scouts

A vote of thanks was also given the Boy Scouts of Glendale for their help. Fortunately, no need arose for using the equipment which they furnished, but had there been any accidents they were well able to give first aid of real worth. They established a hospital tent with all the attending accessories and elicited many words of praise for the evidences of superior training they displayed.

The Tujunga Boy Scouts won from the Mission Tigers on the school grounds by a score of 21 to 18. The teams are well matched and the outcome was not settled until the last ball was pitched. Pitcher Anderson, Fielder Wright and Second Baseman Eddie Riehm led the attack for Tujunga, while Malloy, Lang and Crystal put up good exhibitions for the Tigers.

Line-up: Pond, 2b; E. O'Shannasy, cf; J. Malloy, 1b; Pond, 3b; N. Zitto, p; Crystal, c; H. Lang, lf; E. Malloy, rf.

Tujunga Boy Scouts: Furlong, c; Refhm, 2b; Anderson, p; G. Fasoli, ss; E. Zitto, 3d; Moulder, 1b; B. Fasoli, cf; Wright, lf; Everett, rf.

Mrs. B. B. Reynolds attended the opening of a branch of the bank, of which Mr. Reynolds is cashier, at Maywood this week.

"Mists of the Mountain," a painting from the brush of Mrs. Laura Sweet, is being shown at a Glendale art exhibit.

Yvonne Bloodgood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bloodgood of 317 Tinker street, has been suffering from an attack of the measles.

W. E. Perry, who has been critically ill for some time, is reported much improved, and hopes to be able to receive some of his friends for a short chat some day soon. Mr. Perry was suddenlyy taken sick on January 17 and has been missed from his office on Sunset boulevard and his customary haunts. A speedy recovery is the wish and hope of "the boys" uptown.

The Glendale National Guard is booked to tangle with the Sunland nine at Sunland Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Sunland will endeavor to make it four straight wins by routing the soldiers, while the Glendale gang will come prepared to take the "sun" out of Sunland and inject a few glooms into the local atmosphere. This will be the first appearance in these parts of the National Guardsmen, and from advance notice of their prowess and from past performance of the home crew it looks like a big day for the b. b. germ. Manager Waite has a new face or two for his line-up, and talks mysteriously of "surprises." He may have something up his sleeve beside his arm, in which case bullets may be trumps at this session.

Indorse Application For Bus Line Franchise From Valley Towns To Pasadena

At the last regular meeting of the Tujunga Valley Realty Board an endorsement was given on an application of the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company to the state railroad commission for a franchise to operate a bus line from Sunland and Tujunga to Pasadena. This would connect with the present stage line running to San Fernando from Sunland and would offer a short cut for Southern Pacific passengers from the north, who could save the time necessary to go clear to Los Angeles by taking the bus at San Fernando.

The granting of such a franchise also offers a way of handling northern mail from the San Fernando post office, making a saving of considerable time by eliminating the trip to Los Angeles and then back again.

A motion was adopted whereby a program of discussion for future meetings will be arranged. A committee consisting of M. V. Hartranft, Major P. J. Blake and A. D. Kirschman was appointed to arrange these programs.

At this meeting a resolution of thanks was adopted, directed to the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, for their efforts to secure lights on the cross on Mt. McGroarty. It was also resolved to co-operate with the chamber in issuing literature descriptive of the Tujunga valley and the secretary was directed to notify the Chamber of Commerce of this resolution. Leo L. Lang, M. V. Hartranft and Major Blake were appointed to take the necessary action.

The members will alternate in presiding over portions of the meetings when subjects other than board affairs are discussed. Geo. E. Huse of Sunland will preside at the next meeting, to be held at the Cozy Cup Inn, Monday evening, May 16, at 530 o'clock.

Better Car Service

The regular meeting of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce was held at Bolton Hall. Judge Breidt, president of the Chamber, reported an encouraging outlook on the extension of the electric line of the Glendale & Montrose Railway Company to Tujunga. Several details have yet to be disposed of before any definite action can be taken.

D. A. Johnson, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that the Chamber plans to give entertainments in the future. These will be at Bolton Hall and the plans call for one each week. They will be in the nature of get-together affairs, in which the entire community will be invited to participate, with community singing and club and civic organizations arranging the programs.

According to a report by J. O'B. Bodkin, chairman of the street lighting committee, steps will be taken to complete arrangements for lighting the cross on Mt. McGroarty every night with the street lights.

Edward Darlington, treasurer, reported a balance of $148.24 on hand. Two hundred dollars has been spent on street signs. The sign posting is about complete and many new postings have been added, as well as dilapidated signs replaced.

At the meeting of March 20 it was decided to issue pamphlets describing the attractions of Tujunga to homeseekers and business people. These plans were further discussed at this meeting and Secretary L. H. Fisher, chairman of the publicity committee, is working out the details.

The next meeting of the Chamber will be held on Tuesday evening, May 8, at Bolton Hall.

At a meeting of the Tujunga Community Sunday School at the home of Dr. J. U. Stotts, Judson A. Jenkins was elected superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Jenkins has been very active in the church work and will succeed the Rev. Theodore Hopping, who is going to Van Nuys.

New members of the church will be received at monthly receptions instead of quarterly as has been the practise in the past.

Dr. Stotts recently enjoyed a sermon by Mrs. MacPherson of Los Angeles.

The Rev. W. E. Smith of Sunland Baptist church is being assisted in a series of special meetings by Jesse Smith and Fred Wight of the Redlands university. Friday evening will be devoted to a young people's rally.

Rev. Smith will talk on "The Meanest Man in Sunland" at the Saturday evening meeting. Jesse Smith will preach at the Sunday morning services and Sunday evening will be devoted to the young people again.

Another lecture via the radio will be given by George Harris of Tujunga from a Los Angeles broadcasting station this Saturday night at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "The Three Graces, Ancient and Modern" and "The Society of Guinea Hens."

The popular American Legion dances will be discontinued for the summer season. These weekly hops have been very well attended and enjoyable affairs.

Players Need Actress For Part of 'Granny'

The Glendale Community Players are in need of a dear sweet old "granny" to assist them in their musical comedy which they will present on Thursday and Friday nights, April 19 and 20 at the Tuesday Afternoon Clubhouse auditorium.

Frank Butterfield is going to sing a beautiful song entitled, "Granny" and the Community Players are anxious to have some one volunteer to take the part of "granny" while Mr. Butterfield sings. Anyone who is willing to assist in this capacity will please get in touch with Mrs. Nanno Woods, at Glendale 394.

NEW SUBDIVISION BEING OFFERED

T. W. Watson Puts Glendale Highlands on Market For Pre-Opening

Glendale Highlands, a strictly high class subdivision of thirty-three magnificent hillside lots, fully restricted, is now being offered to the people of Glendale and surrounding territory, on a pre-opening reservation basis, announces T. W. Watson, 708 East Broadway, who is handling the tract.

The location of Glendale Highlands is on Mountain street, between Brand boulevard and Louise street, with a magnificent view overlooking the city. The lots are both level and hillside, states Mr. Watson, and frontages run from 60 to 100 feet.

Close to Car Line

The distance to the Pacific Electric terminal is just one and one-half blocks, and macadam streets, curbs, sidewalks, water, lights, gas and all other improvements are in, Mr. Watson points out, while the lots are restricted to one-family residences only, no duplexes or apartment houses being permitted. To protect this magnificent property in the way it deserves, he says, the figure of $7500 has been set as a building restriction below which price dwellings may not be erected.

Commenting on Glendale Highlands, Mr. Watson claims for the tract a distinction unique in Glendale, where homes of the finest type will rise. For reservations or further information, the many discriminating buyers he expects to quickly take up these fine lots can reach him at 708 East Broadway, or by phoning Glendale 329.

Poem Pays Tribute To Early California

Another tribute has been paid to the early days of California history by Newton Wemyss of 417 East Palmer avenue in the following poem on "El Camino Real" or "The King's Highway," which the Mission Fathers followed in their journeyings along the chain of missions:

EL CAMINO REAL

It winds by a hundred dusty hills
Where the thin, warm breezes blow,
And the Mission bell with distant swell
Throbs soft of the long ago.

Where smell of sage and the hot dry rime
Drifts salt from the sweating yoke;
And you feel the tang of autumn time
In the nip of dry brush smoke.

Do you know the lure of autumn hills,
And uplands bare and grey,
Where fold on fold to the days of old
Stretch leagues of the King's Highway?

Oh! Senorita of old Castile;
We can glimpse your dainty feet;
Your fresh mantilla and gay brocade;
Your laughing eyes and your Indian maid,
And your lips so full and sweet.

Oh! Many a Don there passed this way,
Upon Spanish steed bestride;
With wide sombrero and light guitar;
A champing bit with its jingling bar
And rowels a handbreadth wide.

The padre drones as he plods along,
By his burro loaded high.
With golden poppies he fills his song
And gold from the sunset sky.

In his kindly face is saying grace
As he looks to dying day;
T'was God's design that love divine
Should follow the King's Highway.

Tho' gone now are those who trod the way:
Gone ox and the ox-cart load;
Yet year by year may God's love appear
To point us Life's open road.

Coker & Taylor Get Ready for Summer

A carload of White Mountain refrigerators, shipped from Nashua, N. H., has been received by Coker & Taylor, plumbers, 209 South Brand boulevard, states Edgar Coker, and will supplement the stock of White Mountain and Seeger refrigerators now on hand.

In further preparation for the hot days, when people appreciate the advantage of keeping food cool and sanitary, Mr. Coker states that another half carload of White Mountain refrigerators has been ordered and will be received around July 1.

Last year, he says, Coker & Taylor sold one and one-quarter carloads of these refrigerators, in addition to many of other makes. This year the sales will be between one and one-half and two carloads.

EAGLE ROCK

BUSINESS BLOCK NOW UNDER WAY

W. H. Sprinkler Is Owner of Building Being Erected On South Central

South Central avenue, Eagle Rock, is beginning to develop very rapidly and perhaps as clear an indication as any, of which way the trade wind is blowing, lies in the erection between Mariposa and Ridgeway avenues of a new business block.

The structure is being erected by W. H. Sprinkler and the corner at Central and Ridgeway will be occupied by Thomas L. Clancy and Son & W. R. Kirk, provision merchants, who, at present occupy the market at 929-931 South Central avenue.

The block will be complete about June 1, according to present plans, at which time Clancy & Kirk will occupy their corner and other firms will take up the balance of the stores.

Mock Wedding

A distinctive and novel ceremony took place Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. A. C. Fiske, 203 North Castle avenue, when Mrs. Grace Sherwood, the "bride," was given away—and dead away at that!—by her mother, Mrs. Fiske, who turned the full light of publicity on all her daughter's "shortcomings," revealing all her faults.

The "bridegroom" was Mrs. G. E. Arbogast and the "best man" Mrs. K. W. Hunt, while Mrs. H. B. Hawkins was "matron of honor" and the "bridesmatrons" were Mesdames Dans, Walker, Beach and Gloyd.

The bride wore a lovely lace bed-spread gown and the groom and best man were attired in the conventional (?) dress suits, the bridesmatrons appearing in handsome crepe paper gowns in shades of yellow and orange.

The flower girl, Miss Jane Elderkin, carried a bough of an orange tree in full bloom, and containing a cluster of oranges for good measure. The ring-bearer, Bobby Allen, carried a half orange in a bed of blossoms.

Mrs. Talbot, of Alhambra, attired in cap and gown, performed the ceremony but was unable to cajole either party into committing themselves with the customary "I do".

The affair took place in a group of rooms most tastefully and beautifully decorated, and each of the large number of "witnesses" to the above-described event brought a present.

Tea was served, each cup containing an orange blossom. As a result of this affair, which was highly successful from an economic as well as social point of view, the women cleared $25 for their fund, in addition to the gifts received, which latter will be for their next bazaar.

Big Rodeo at Occidental

This afternoon, at Occidental college, there are "big doin's", Tom Mix and his famous horse "Tony" being among the headliners. Tom will have a lot of his cowboy pals there too, doing stunts—and where they stop, there Tom will start, for he is out to prove to certain parties that he is set when he loiters in the saddle.

Tom is also going to shake a wicked trigger, reports state, certain parties having nettled him along this line too—so there is likely to be some nifty shooting.

Then there will be a track meet. And last, but by no means least, there will be a barbecue.

All in all it's going to be a bang-up affair, its exponents state, and half of Southern California is expected. As Eagle Rock is right on the spot, so to speak, its citizens are going to have a slight edge on other contenders for attendance record.

Complete Foundation For New Brick Block

The foundation for the new two story brick block which is being erected on Glendale avenue just south of Broadway, by George Caldwell is completed and brick laying will commence the first of the week.

BURBANK

GIVES PARTY ON DOUBLE BIRTHDAY

William R. Lynch Observes Son's Anniversary and Also His Own

Last night was the occasion of a brilliant affair at the Sunset Canyon Country club, when Manager William R. Lynch was host to sixty-four friends, in honor of the eighteenth birthday of his son, William R. Lynch, Jr.

Incidentally—coincidentally, it might well be said—last night was Manager Lynch's forty-fourth birthday. So it was a gay night at the club.

As a matter of fact, reports Mr. Lynch, it has been a gay week. Thursday night N. A. Ross, of Hollywood, entertained eighty friends at a dinner and dance. Wednesday night Dr. Brachau, of Los Angeles, entertained a large party at a dinner and dance. Tuesday night was the occasion of the third and last costume dance, with a gay crowd attending. While on Monday night the club served an elaborate dinner to the Burbank Rotary club, on the occasion of the official presentation of their charter by District Manager Williams, numerous Glendale Rotarians and Rotary Anns being present.

Many Social Events

So there has been some big affair at the Sunset Canyon Country club every night this week, says Mr. Lynch, with prospects very good for keeping up the record indefinitely. Even in the daytime many social events are constantly in full sway, keeping the dining-rooms busy, the golf links, swimming pools and other facilities going all day long.

Sunday, too, is a big day, reports Mr. Lynch, with traffic congestion so bad that since April 1 it has been necessary to employ a traffic man to handle the cars around the clubhouse. Last Sunday 300 guests were served dinner, he points out.

Mr. Lynch mentions several improvements that are to come. It is expected to continue the automobile road over a mile, bringing it to the foot of the big mountain. Other improvements that will be a distinct advantage to everyone who goes up the canyon, is the paving of the road from the entrance to the clubhouse. Ten houses are under way, it is reported, which, when finished, will make a total of 150 cabins in the canyon.

Mr. Lynch states that financially things are progressing in a gratifying manner. In December, he says, he made money, but in January he lost. February was a fair month, March better, and April beginning to look as though the club had hit its stride.

Elks to Hold Annual Jinks Monday Night

The annual inaugural jinks of the Elks lodge will be held at the club house on East Colorado street on Monday night, immediately following a brief business session of the lodge, when every member of the local organization, as well as every other Elk in town or in this vicinity will be welcome to attend and share in the enjoyment of the pranks that are to be played and the program that is to be presented, according to an announcement by W. M. Kimball, secretary.

A number of athletic events have already been booked for the evening, of which boxing between several classy mitt slingers bulks large on the bill, and the full program will be announced on Monday in time to permit the members to know just what the entertainment committee intends to serve up for their amusement.

WRESTLING MATCHES

A mat tournament is to be held Wednesday afternoon in the boys' gymnasium of Glendale Union high school. Entrants are being divided into six classes according to weight. Coach Eugene Wolfe is anxious to arouse interest among the high school boys in "rassling."

TEST FIRST UNIT OF WATER PLANT

Six Miles of Mains Already Installed by Owners of Sparr Heights

The water system for the first unit of Sparr Heights is being tested out today and next week will be serving the homes in this tract with the delicious water of the Verdugo hills.

Six miles of water mains have been installed by the Barnum-Walters Company in unit No. 1, which comprises ninety-six acres. Now that the complete water system is in, street work in this tract is expected to proceed more rapidly. Several carloads of pipe are now on the ground and will be installed as rapidly as possible in unit No. 2, which consists of forty acres on the west side of Verdugo road just south of unit No. 1. This second unit will include the community building and the new school house. Unit No. 3 is located on the east side of Verdugo road. It contains 100 acres.

The Barnum-Walters Company has now sold all of the 585 lots in unit No. 1 and reports an equal demand for lots in unit No. 2. H. E. Barnum estimates that the lots in unit No. 1 have increased from $300 to $400 in value since this tract was put on the market.

Cherry Trees Bloom

The cherry blossoms in the orchards at Beaumont and Banning are worth going miles to see, in the opinion of C. P. Cook, member of the realty firm of Howard Merwin of Montrose.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cook of 274 Honolulu avenue, Montrose, returned yesterday from an automobile trip to the desert. They report that grain is waist high in the Moreno valley of Riverside county.

"That whole country seems to be growing up rapidly," remarked Mr. Cook. "I was certainly surprised."

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Ballenger, who bought a home Thursday in Sparr Heights, went to Long Beach, where they lived before coming to Montrose, to make final arrangements to move to the Verdugo hills. Mr. Ballenger is having a drug store built on the northwest corner of Honolulu and Montrose avenues.

The picturesqueness of Sparr Heights is depicted in photographs fifteen by twenty inches in size recently taken from an airplane by the Cross Air Map Company of Los Angeles.

This series of six pictures reveals the topography of the Sparr valley from every direction. Roads have been marked upon them in white.

"These pictures are absolutely correct," remarked Will E. Chappin. "There is no distortion."

These aerial photographs are now on display at the offices of the Barnum-Walters Company at Sparr Heights, at 201 East Broadway and at 6612 Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood.

Dr. Fareed Will Speak On 'Divine Mastery'

Dr. Ameen U. Fareed, of Los Angeles, will speak 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the New Thought center, Masonic Temple, 232 South Brand boulevard, on the topic, "Man's Divine Mastery," it is announced, and visitors interested in advanced thought are cordially invited to attend.

There will be Sunday school for children at 10 o'clock.

A class in psycho-analysis is conducted by Dr. Fareed from 10 till 11 o'clock, when a large attendance is expected, as this popular subject has brought to the class numbers of interested students.

SLIGHTLY HURT

Motorcycle Officer M. H. Collins of 326 North Adams Place was slightly injured Thursday night in a collision near the intersection of Brand boulevard and California avenue. Today he is walking with a limp.

EXCHANGE FAVORS AMERICAN PLAN

Local Organization Declares That It Believes in Industrial Freedom

Unanimous indorsement was accorded the American plan of industrial freedom, at last night's well attended meeting of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale.

In commenting on this action, Henry Molz, secretary-manager of the organization, states that the members believe the workman has a right to belong to a union if he so desires, that he has the right to work when and for whom he pleases, and that the employer has the equal right to hire whom and when he pleases.

"This principle is, in brief, the American Plan," says Mr. Molz, "a plan that has been universally adopted throughout the nation. Believing that the interests of the general public will be served by the adherence of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale to this plan, the organization has gone on record.

"We of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale are not unmindful of the cordial response that has greeted our efforts to establish higher standards in our industry. Every workman in the land, union or non-union, knows that under the American plan he is assured the opportunity to work where and when he will, without interference. And every employer and investor knows that under this plan he is assured the opportunity to conduct his own business in his own way, without interference.

"We are not against unions. We are for industrial freedom and that individual 'fair chance' which every man in this land is by right entitled to."

Local Legion Team To Contest Covina

JUBILEE STAGED AT LEGION HOME

Voters' Decision on Clubhouse Site Celebrated by Local Post

A jubilee over the acquisition of a clubhouse site was held last night in their hall at 610 East Broadway by members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary. Sidney Simon of 1134 Viola avenue had charge of the entertainment and the entire evening was devoted to sociability.

Violin selections played by Julius Kranz of 115 West Eulalia street included "Ave Marie" and "Enchantment." Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb of 441 Hawthorne street accompanied him.

"The Optimist and the Pessimist," a satiric poem written by Frank Egan of Los Angeles, made a big impression when recited by Miss Doris Packer of 362 Riverdale drive. As an encore she soliloquized in a baseball monologue.

"Raggedy Ann" was the title of a specialty dance given by Katherine Woods of 122 Milford street which was much applauded. She will repeat it April 19 and 20 at the musical comedy, "The Fun Review of 1923," to be given at the Tuesday Afternoon Clubhouse under the auspices of the American Legion.

A musical reading, "The Usual Way," was given by Miss Dorothy Woods of 122 Milford street. Keaumoku A. Louis of 317 West California avenue accompanied her.

A little singing, a little ventriloquism and a lot of comedy were features of an act put on by William Thurkittle of 3024 Casitas avenue. Mrs. B. A. Kearns of 225 North Brand boulevard accompanied him with the musical setting.

The program was followed by a dance. Mrs. B. A. Kearns played the piano, Eddie Moniot of 408 South Brand boulevard played the banjo and Wilbur Funk of 111 East Harvard street, played the saxophone.

Refreshments came from 463 West Los Feliz road, the beverage plant of S. W. Brown Company.

HEAR PLANS TO ASSIST TRAFFIC

Co-Ordination of Motors And Steam Roads Is Being Furthered

NEW YORK, April 14.—One of the longest forward strides ever taken in the process of bringing the railroads of the country into their proper relationship with transportation as a whole was recorded at a meeting in New York, called by Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

It was attended by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and representatives of the railroads, automotive industry and waterways interests. The purpose back of the meeting was to initiate a thorough study of the transportation needs and facilities of the country, with a view to co-ordinating them and bringing them into the closest possible co-operation. Some plain truths were spoken, but they were accepted in a give and take spirit, and complete harmony prevailed.

Plain Speaking at Meet

Railroad men were told frankly that up to this time they had assumed that the steam carriers made up the transportation system, and that they had too long regarded motor vehicles and waterways as interlopers, taking away from them the business which was rightfully theirs.

This meeting and the survey which is contemplated will do more than anything which ever has happened to bring the railroads to a more complete understanding of the part motor vehicles can and should play in the movement of freight and passengers. Representatives of the automotive industry told the railroad men that no claim is made that motor vehicles ever can take the place of the railroads, but it was contended that trucks provide the most economical means for handling short hauls less than carload lots.

Another point made clear to the railroad representatives was that the automotive industry is the biggest single customer they have; that its only interest is to serve the nation and to have the best possible freight service to meet its own needs.

As a result of the meeting a large committee, representing all forms of transportation, will be appointed to make a thorough study of the situation and to recommend means for bringing about co-ordination which will enable each transportation unit to render a maximum of efficient service. This report will be presented to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, but it is expected that the constructive suggestions developed will be made the basis for a definite program which will gradually be put into effect.

From the point of view of the automotive industry, the meeting marks the beginning of the end of the vicious attacks made upon it by the carriers. It is probable that within a comparatively short time the two industries will be found working in close co-operation.

Do Any Driving In Los Angeles? If So, Read On!

FOR the benefit of motorists who have been confused by recent changes in the traffic ordinance in Los Angeles, the following dont's will help to clear up the misunderstanding:

First—Don't turn right at Fifth and Broadway, Sixth and Broadway and Seventh and Broadway between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6:15 p. m.

Second—Don't turn left at the following intersections between 9 a. m. and 6:15 p. m.: Los Angeles street at Seventh street, Main and Spring streets at Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets; Broadway at Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets; Hill street at Sixth and Seventh streets, and also at Third street, when moving west.

Third—Don't pass standing street cars in the congested district after 6:15 p. m. and until 9:00 a. m. the following morning. Many motorists violate this prohibition, believing they have the same privilege that exists between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 6:15 p. m.

Fourth—Don't pass standing street cars loading or discharging passengers at any time outside of the congested district. Stop ten feet behind the nearest exit. In case a traffic officer is on duty he has the authority to order you to pass on while passengers are getting on or off.

Paste this in your hat and keep out of the clutches of the ticket passers.

High School Pupils To Get Opportunity For Free Education

WASHINGTON, April 14.—For the fourth successive year, high school pupils of the nation are to be given opportunity to win the largest single educational award offered in the United States, according to a statement by the highway education board.

The award is the H. S. Firestone four years' university scholarship, providing not only tuition, but room, board, books and special fees for the student writing the best essay in the annual good roads essay contest. The assigned subject of the essays to be written is "The Influence of Highway Transportation Upon the Religious Life of My Community."

Announcement of the contest is being made to superintendents of schools, high school principals and students as rapidly as possible, and all available literature is being listed and tabulated for the information of the prospective contestants. The board announces its willingness to answer any inquiry students and teachers may desire to make, but it points out that all that is necessary is compliance with the simple rules of the contest, and the preparation of a 700-word essay on the subject. Essays should be submitted to the high school principal by May 1.

STATE WILL SET MARK IN AUTOS

New Record in Number of Registrations; Southern Figures Amaze

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—With the record of 1922 already equaled, California is expected to establish an unparalleled mark in the number of motor vehicles registered during the present year. And the surprising increase in Southern California automobile registrations is looked upon as the chief factor in the prospective accomplishment, according to a statement issued by Will H. March, superintendent of the state division of motor vehicles.

In two months—February and March—a total of 825,000 motor vehicles had been placed upon the state registration books. This, says March, is approximately the figure for the whole of 1922.

March further announces that $8,200,000 has been collected in fees during the last two months, at least as great a sum as was accumulated during all of 1922.

Los Angeles Leads

The Los Angeles office of the department, it was announced, has contributed thirty-three and one-third per cent of the registrations and revenues.

With the number of California resident motorists thus increasing, the state highway commission is taking steps to hasten road work and is preparing plans for new construction projects contemplated by the present administration.

One of the first contracts to be awarded by the new commission, in all probability, will call for a mile of paving at the approaches of the San Gabriel river bridge in Los Angeles county. Plans and specifications have been prepared.

Road Courtesy Aids In Securing Safety On South's Roads

Courtesy on the road among motorists is akin to safety. A repair man compiled this list of suggestions from the motorists who have told how their cars have been damaged when they brought them for repairs:

When a man approaches you from behind, sounds his horn as a signal to pass, don't "step on it"; draw over to the right and let him pass.

Don't use more than your share of the road, thus crowding others into the ditch.

It is not courteous to "steal" a parking space from a man who is just getting ready to back into it.

Do not imagine that every motorist on the road who tries to pass you is starting a race. He may be on important business.

When you pass a man from behind going in the same direction do not cut in directly in front.

Do not shove another man's car along the curb to make room for yours, thus jamming his car against a fire plug or the car ahead.

City Life Proves Surprise to Autoist From Arizona Wilds

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, April 14. — Out in Kingman, Ariz., where he is known to the hardened "old timers" as "Red," John Harris is a two-gun man and has the reputation of taking guns away from outlaws. And when it comes to riding the trail of an outlaw, whether it be by horseback or automobile, "Red" Harris tips his hat to no man. He is in real life what Tom Mix is on the screen. But that is when he is out around Kingman and among "home folks."

WILLIAM G. CAYCE

"Red" Harris came to Los Angeles recently and found things a little different than in Kingman.

For the trip to Los Angeles "Red" chose his own automobile and made good time over the irregular desert roads until he struck the smooth paved highway that leads into this city.

Then he was out of his element. There were none of those big bumps in the roads that feature the highways of Arizona, and "Red" said it seemed that he was continually in a parade of automobiles which was passing another parade of machines.

Though experiencing a number of "adventures" that were hair-raising and thrilling, Harris' trip, until he struck the outskirts of the city, was reasonably safe. Then it got to be more than "Red" could stand. He pulled his machine into the sidewalk, got out and walked to the nearest garage.

"My car is down there at that corner," he drawled to the garage keeper. "Send-a man down afta it. Call me a taxi cab."

"I'll drive any old car over any mountain grade," he said while visiting friends here, "but in this town they leap atcha from everywhere, and at every corner theres a policeman standing on the only spot that's big enough to get a machine through."

Detroit Turns Out 60 Per Cent of Autos Says Federal Report

DETROIT, April 14.—Detroit produces about 60 per cent of the automobiles manufactured in the United States. The value of these, however, is only 45 per cent of the total, statistics show. The estimates are based on the last federal census and other official data.

When the automobile business first appeared in statistical tables the value of the industry in Detroit was about 20 per cent of the total for the country. That was in 1904. In 1909 the percentage had risen to 24. Five years later it was 40 per cent and in 1919 the ratio was virtually unchanged. The year 1919 was the last for which the federal census figures are available, but information from other sources shows that the percentage has risen to as high as 45 per cent.

The proportion in the number of cars is much higher. In 1920 about 58 per cent of all cars turned out in America were manufactured in Detroit and in 1922 this percentage had increased to 60. The fact that a large number of low priced cars are made in Detroit accounts for this. The Ford Motor company will manufacture more than half the country's output, from the standpoint of numbers this year. Detroit also leads in the manufacture of automobile bodies, axles, and most other parts.

700-Mile Bus Line Operating in China

Automobile passenger service is being furnished between the cities of Kalgan and Urga, China, a distance of 700 miles, according to a United States Consular report from Shanghai. Twenty-five cars are used on the route, all of American make.

Touring cars are used, and the report on their performance is as follows:

"When it is considered that these ordinary five-passenger touring cars are often called on to carry a ton or a ton and a half of passengers and baggage, their performance is truly remarkable. There are no constructed roads, the road between Kalgan and Urga is an old caravan route, and there are abominable stretches of sand, rock, gravel and dirt. Nevertheless the cars make the run in about four days."

Gasoline Tax Is Law Over Sixteen States

The gasoline tax is now a law in sixteen states—Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Kentucky, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota and Washington. In all cases the rate is 1 cent a gallon except in Oregon, Maryland and South Carolina, where the rate is 2 cents.

PRODUCTION RECORD IS BROKEN

March Is Biggest Month in History of Industry, So Figures Show

DETROIT, April 14.—Another automobile record went by the board when the industry closed the best first quarter in the history both in point of production and volume of sales. Production of motor cars and trucks in March totaled 346,000, making it the biggest month in the history of the industry. Output for the first quarter reached 857,000, making it the biggest quarter on record. This is more than double the output of the corresponding three months a year ago. June, 1920, held the previous monthly record when 289,000 cars and trucks were produced.

Some manufacturers were hindered from reaching new records of production owing to the scarcity of material but this does not constitute a serious deterrent for the present at least and another record will be set in the second quarter, judging from prevailing conditions. The present prosperity is not momentary but will continue for some time, for it is general throughout the country, according to automobile executives who have returned to Detroit following visits to all parts of the United States.

Excellent Conditions

An increased buying disposition on the part of the farmer in the middle west is noticeable, the demand from this territory reaching much greater proportions than was anticipated. Like conditions prevail in the agricultural districts of the south, where the farmer is in vastly superior financial condition than he was a year ago.

Conditions on the Pacific coast were never better. The demand for cars from that section alone would keep a score of factories busy for a long time.

Big Supply Makes Gas Cut Necessary Oil Men Announce

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Announcement has been made that the recent cut in the price of gasoline, participated in by all oil companies operating in the local field, was due to the well known law of supply and demand.

Oil men took occasion to deny that the cut was due in any way to a "price cutting war," either present or anticipated.

The move of the Standard Oil company in reducing the price of gasoline from 20 cents to 19 cents per gallon, and engine distillate half a cent per gallon was followed by virtually all the large companies, independent and otherwise. Original reports that the so-called independent refining companies had cut the price down to 17 cents on gasoline were found to be erroneous.

At the same time it was announced that the new price for refinable crude oils at the well in Los Angeles and Orange counties established by the Standard, was met by all the other companies. The price of heavy crudes remains the same.

Tremendous supplies on hand made the cut in prices expedient, it was announced.

6000 Break Traffic Rules in One Month

In one month, fourteen police lieutenants in New York City checked more than 6000 violations of traffic ordinances by persons walking in the streets, as well as violations by drivers of motor vehicles. Three thousand and nine "jay walkers" were found crossing streets in the midle of the block, and 500 children were stealing rides or "hitching on" behind moving vehicles.

Strong Current Given By Clean Connection

Because an electric current will not pass through fouled connections, all wires should be examined occasionally and connections cleaned. Only the amount of current proportionate to the cleanliness of the connection will pass through the circuit.

Women Most Careful Drivers, Says Officer

According to A. A. Carroll, superintendent of police at Grand Rapids, Mich., women are more careful automobile drivers, obeying ordinances better, do not take the chances and do not drive so fast as men operators.

California Leads World In Motors Per Capita

RECENT official statistics show that in California the average family has an automobile, there being 861,805 registered motor vehicles within the state, or one car to every four inhabitants, including children. As the average California family consists of four persons, it is readily seen that autos are distributed very liberally among the populace of this state—so liberally, in short, that in motors per capita California leads the world.

As a matter of fact, the entire group of far-western states shows up to good advantage. Nevada has one auto to each six persons, Oregon and Washington one to six, Idaho one to nine, Utah and Arizona one to ten, Wyoming one to seven, Montana, one to nine, Colorano one to six, New Mexico one to fourteen. The far-western group averages one car to every five inhabitants.

Compare these figures with those on the other side of the trans-continental divide: New York and Pennsylvania have one auto to each eleven persons, Ohio one to seven, Virginia and West Virginia one to fourteen, Kentucky one to sixteen, North Carolina one to fifteen, South Carolina one to eighteen, Georgia one to twenty-one, Alabama one to twenty-seven, Mississippi one to twenty-three and so on.

Nowhere in the United States except in the far west are automobiles so prevalent, and nowhere in the far west except in California are there so many cars per capita.

Aside from the indication shown by these statistics that Californians are answering "the lure of the open road" and are seeing the beauties of the state, the figures have a deeper significance. They show that in this state the average family is in a highly prosperous condition.

In 1914 California had 60,000 automobiles. Today it has 861,805, an increase of over 1000 per cent in less than a decade. While in New York, the increase from 1914 to the present was from 122,411 to around 500,000, or less than half the percentage of increase shown by California.

California was the only "white spot" in the United States during the depression of 1920. California leads the country in automobiles, in building, in educational standards and facilities, in climate, and in many other ways that can be proven by statistics.

In the matter of automobiles, the reader should ask himself, "Am I a car owner?" And if his answer is in the negative, he will be forced to say, "Then I do not represent an average Californian family."

There are enough cars in California for every family to have one. Any family who hasn't one is not getting the best out of living in this country of glorious scenery and superb highways.

Electric Clock New Feature of 1923 Car

Among the newest features of the 1923 equipment of passenger automobiles is the adoption of the electric clock, a device that is operated by the current of the storage battery. These clocks take so little current as to hardly register on the ammeter. They are also accurate, and are not affected by vibration or weather conditions.

Most Crashes Occur Late in Afternoon

From the analysis of the 501 fatal motor vehicle accidents in Massachusetts last year, 5 o'clock in the afternoon was found to be the hour when fatalities were most numerous. Other statistics show that by far the largest part of the acidents occurred in clear weather, in the daytime, and on straight roads.

DON'T RIDE ON CLUTCH, WARNING

Expert Gives Some Good Suggestions to Assist In Auto Driving

By L. J. FLETCHER
Division of Agricultural Engineering, College of Agriculture, University of California.

Do you rest your foot on the clutch pedal when you are operating your automobile, truck or tractor? If you do, you belong to that large army of clutch riders who are perhaps unconsciously making life miserable for clutch throwout bearings and crank shaft thrust bearings.

When people first learn to drive they often get into the habit of resting a foot against the clutch pedal thinking that this will give them an advantage in case they must stop quickly. As a rule, a quicker stop can be made if, after closing the throttle, the brake is applied before the clutch is released.

All automotive machinery operated by an internal combustion engine is furnished with some kind of a clutch. The purpose of the clutch is to provide a means of gradually applying the power of the motor to the drive wheels of the vehicle. It is necessary because a gas engine will not start satisfactorily under a load, so it must be operating at a fairly high speed before it will deliver power. The majority of clutches have a powerful spring which is compressed when the clutch is disengaged.

Clutch is Explained

Since the clutch is revolving and the clutch pedal standing still, a flange or collar is provided on the clutch which is straddled by a fork attached to the pedal. As a rule, a bronze sleeve or a ball or roller thrust bearing is used to prevent wear and reduce the friction at this point. In most cases, however, this bearing is not designed to take continual pressure. In many cars its lubrication is intermittent, in some cases absolutely neglected, but in spite of poor lubrication this bearing will usually give good service unless it is asked to take a continual pressure due to the driver resting his foot against the clutch pedal.

"I don't push on the pedal; I just barely touch it" is the first remark of nearly everyone whose attention is called to this habit. That may be true, but a glance at the worn corrugation on the pedal

The Fable of "Tut"

3000 years ago lived an Egyptian King named Tut-Ankh-Amen. It sounded like a stutter and the gang at the Luxor Golf Club called him "Tut."
When "Tut" reached the cake eater age and got his hair plastered back right he died. Dying was one of the leading indoor sports and "Tut's" death was a major event. They slipped him into a swell Tomb in the "Valley of the Kings," where none but the "Moon" had invaded.
Three thousand years later a party of snoopers dug up "Tut's" Tomb and all the junk buried with him. The advertising men took hold of "Tut" and in a few weeks he had a Rep that makes "Charlie Chaplin" and "Day by Day Coue" look like a last year's almanac in comparison, with the Result—

NEVER SLAM DOORS

Slamming of doors on a car is a practice which should be avoided at all times. Persisten slamming racks the hinges and loosens the doors until they become wobbly and hang loosely.

TRIPLEX SPRINGS INSURE BUMPER

Add to Riding Comfort by Minimizing Chassis Distortion

Triplex springs on the Overland car are a specially patented device with a great many superior qualifications. They are a unique method adopted by Overland engineers in mounting the springs so that the load of the Overland is carried as if cradled between the two extreme points of the car. The ends of the springs are 130 inches apart and the body rests on them just as if in a hammock.

Everyone has at some time or another seen a man trying to push a wheelbarrow up over a curbstone. The wheelbarrow would not go, so the man turned around and pulled it over, which demonstrates that what the man could not do by pushing could be done by pulling. The same principle is applied to Overland triplex springs. They extended from the exreme front end of the car down to the front axle and continually pull the front wheels over any and all obstacles and obstructions in the road.

The weight of each Overland spring is about twenty pounds and they are made of chrome vanadian steel, carefully heat treated; so designed and assembled in the chassis that all road shocks are absorbed with minimum discomfort to the occupants of the car. These springs are oiled at one end only and in a very accessible location. A feature of the Overland triplex springs is the apron covering the front springs which extends far enough forward to protect the radiator from the mud and dust and at the same time make a distinctly attractive front end.

These triplex springs are also excellent "bumper insurance," extending as they do so far out in front beyond the front axle and radiator.

LOCATION ASSET TO WHITE PLANT

Modern Establishment Is Placed at Junction Of Three Avenues

Located at the junction of Brand boulevard, San Fernando road and Forest avenue, the Harry E. White, Inc., salesroom and service station occupies one of the most strategic positions in Glendale for the transaction of the business in which the firm is engaged. Besides the admirable location, lying at the meeting point of three of the busiest roads not only in Glendale, but in the entire southland, another point in its favor is the convenience with which the various departments of the plant are laid out, permitting the motorist to transact his business with the least possible delay.

The plant fronts for 180 feet on Brand boulevard, 150 feet on San Fernando road, and 100 feet on Forest avenue, widening to a breadth of 250 feet at the rear, as the buildings spread to take up the greater width of the triangle on which they sit. Immediately in front of the main establishment are the gasoline pumps, with their visible containers of the latest models, the oils that are delivered under pressure to the waiting automobiles, and the station where the smaller accessories are sold. The wide driveways that are a part of this section of the plant offer easy ingress and egress to the firm's customers, and the clockwork regularity and smoothness with which the work is handled permits quick service and cuts down delay to a minimum, while the metal root over the oil station serves to protect patrons and members of the staff from any variety of weather.

Builds Big Trade

The salesroom, lying along San Fernando road, has space for a large number of models of the Reo car, which the firm distributes in this territory, and on which the Harry E. White organization has succeeded in building up a trade that reaches a high figure monthly and that is steadily progressing toward higher totals. The firm also has the agency for the Cletrac, the miniature but powerful tractor that is in such general use in every line of industry throughout the country, and that is especially adapted to farm and town uses.

In the mechanical department, the latest tools are installed to enable the men who are kept working night and day to take care of any and every kind of repair job that may be brought in to the shop, and one of the notable features is a traveling crane that can be shifted to any part of the shop on a track and that does away with all pit work in handling repair jobs. The men employed in the shop are all experts in their own lines, and they, too, are permeated with the spirit that directs the entire White organization, service of the best possible kind and courtesy to every customer who comes into the place, whether he buys only a pint of oil or a Reo sedan.

The firm's investment in buildings and site runs close to $100,000, while the stock of accessories and the equipment in the various departments adds another $25,000 to the amount that is tied up in the business, which ranks as one of the leading establishments of its kind in Southern California.

NEW FORD SALES PLAN EXPLAINED

Weekly Payment to Savings Bank Helps Motorist To Purchase Car

Announcing a plan whereby practically every wage-earner in the United States can now purchase a new Ford car, Henry Ford has again demonstrated his desire to assist the working man to own an automobile.

It is safe to say that this plan will interest more millions of people throughout the world than any other announcement made in recent years by any manufacturer.

"It has been Henry Ford's lifelong ambition to build the universal family car, and to put it within the reach of everyone," declares Jesse E. Smith, local Ford dealer, in describing the revolutionary sales plan. "Realizing that there are over 20,000,000 wage-earners in this country, the large majority of whom do not own automobiles because of the large down payment required, the 'Ford Weekly Purchase Plan' has been worked out for their benefit. During the past fifteen years, over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of buyers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford. And now the way is open.

Banks Co-operate

"Briefly, under the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan, the banks are co-operating with the Ford dealers in their vicinity in making it easier for the prospective Ford buyer to complete the purchase. You simply make an initial deposit as low as $5.00, then select the type of Ford you want—touring car, runabout, coupe or sedan—and arrange to make weekly deposits, on which interest will be paid by the bank at the regular savings rate. Within a few months the car is delivered and the balance can be taken care of on a similar basis of weekly or monthly payments. The same plan also applies to Ford trucks and Fordson tractors.

"That there are millions who want cars is quickly proven. Stop the first pedestrian you meet, and make this inquiry—Do you own an automobile?' If the answer is in the negative, ask if he would like to own one, and, invariably the answer is an emphatic 'Yes.' To your next question, 'When do you expect to purchase a car?' the answer in many cases will be, 'I guess it will be several years before I will be able to buy a car.'

"It is apparent, therefore, that nearly everyone intends to buy a car at the very first opportunity. That 'first opportunity' is now presented through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan, a simple savings plan that not only makes it possible but actually easy to own an automobile in a surprisingly short length of time.

Don't Ride Clutch, Is Suggestion by Expert

of the car often shows that he has a rather heavy touch.

Aside from wearing the clutch throw-out this habit will also cause excessive wear on the thrust bearing on the crank shaft. The writer examined a car recently in which there was one-eighth of an inch play in the crank shaft. This caused considerable noise, loss of oil and was directly the cause of a grabbing clutch. The owner of the car was a short person, and found it more restful to "park" his foot on the clutch pedal rather than let it hang in space.

May Cause Slipping Clutch

There are a number of small cars on the market using a foot clutch which is placed in a very handy position for "riding". This practice if continued may cause a slipping clutch and is certain to cause more than normal wear on motor and transmission bearings. So, to repeat with emphasis, keep your foot off the clutch pedal unless you are releasing or engaging the clutch.

Visitors at the annual university farm picnic, which is scheduled this year for Saturday, April 28th, will have an opportunity of examining many different types of clutch and transmission designs and obtaining complete information on the proper operation and care of their machines.

NEW COLOR ADDS BEAUTY TO AUTO

Studebakers Are Coming in Dark Blue and Maroon To Local Agent

Cars that have been arriving at the Packer Auto Company, 245 South Brand boulevard during the last few days from the Studebaker factories have been coming in two colors, the customary dark blue and the new color, maroon, which permits the buyer a wider choice in colors than has been possible in the past. The new colors are available in practically all of the models except the Light Six, on which the baked enamel surface precludes the use of any other color than black.

Under the new styles adopted by the Studebaker firm, the customer can, as a rule, obtain either color he desires, and the variety that the Packer Auto Company is now carrying in their warehouse permits a wide choice of various models, as well as the two standard colors that have been adopted.

Deliveries are coming forward in greater quantities of late than they have been for some time, due in large measure to the arrangements that have been made with the factory by which the Packer Auto Company is given preferential treatment in the filling of its orders. The Studebaker Company it is stated, realizes the growing market that Glendale affords, and it is eager to do everything possible to meet the demand that exists for its cars in this territory.

MAXWELL GROWTH BASED ON MERIT

Beauty, Quality and Power Build Reputation for Latest Models

No automobile ever produced has built up for itself in such a short time, a reputation for good appearance, exceptional performance, unusual riding quality and unlimited power as the new Maxwell car has had in the past year, says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers.

The public was quick to recognize in the good Maxwell, value expressed in such terms of beauty as it had never seen before. The exceptional performance of this fine car in the hands of owners, as well as its ease of riding, has strengthened immeasurably the conviction that the good Maxwell is without a serious rival.

Various models give the prospective purchaser an unusual line to select from. The most recent addition to the line being the Maxwell sport, touring and roadster, and is recognized by everybody as exceptional value, coming as it does completely equipped with all accessories, including bumpers, trunk, trunk rack, extra tire and everything that is necessary in the way of additional equipment for the most particular car owner.

The great number of these new Maxwell sport cars that have appeared on the streets is evidence of their popularity, says Mr. Clark.

SPRINGS THEIR CARE

A still, rigid spring is often caused by the rusting together of the spring leaves. Springs will be much more flexible and the riding qualities of the car greatly improved if a mixture of graphite and oil is inserted between the spring leaves. To perfect the job it would be much better to take the springs apart and thoroughly clean them before applying the graphite compound.

TRADE IN AUTOS AT STAR AGENCY

Dilley & Armstrong's Plan Appeals to Motorists Of Glendale

The demand for the new Star cars has been so insistent during the last few weeks that the owners of other automobiles are taking advantage of the generous trade offer that Dilley & Armstrong, Star distributors, at 115 West Harvard, have been making. During the last week, according to C. A. Dilley, thirty-two cars have been traded in on new Stars, and so successful has this policy of the firm proven that they have determined to extend the period originally set for this plan for another two weeks, in order that as many local motorists as possible may take advantage of the plan to own a new Star.

In spite of the fact that Dilley & Armstrong are urging the factory to keep up the shipments to the Glendale territory and even to increase the allotment set aside for them, there is a fear of a shortage in the near future, and it is incumbent on those who are seeking early delivery on their automobile orders to place their orders right away, in order that they may be assured of getting their cars in anything like reasonable time.

One of the factors that is adding steadily to the popularity of the Star is the inherent merit of the machine, Mr. Dilley declares, and he is building up his trade entirely on a basis of sound values.

MANY PUPILS HAULED

Wood County, Ohio, has twenty-eight consolidated schools, of which five were established this year. Twenty-seven hundred pupils are transported daily to these schools in motor vehicles.

SIGNALS ON BELTS

Traffic police in Denver, Colo., wear special belts with red signal lights on the front and rear of the leather straps. Small batteries are carried in the pockets of the policemen.

Special Six Touring, $1525

Wherever motor cars are discussed and that's nearly everywhere, somebody is sure to remark—"That Studebaker Special-Six is a regular automobile."

The Studebaker Special-Six has been on the market for four years. Each year has been added to it such refinements and improvements as time has made possible. Today there are more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand in every-day service and we don't believe there's a dissatisfied owner.

The name was selected because comparative tests against all kinds of cars made this car stand out as something special and apart from the ordinary run of automobiles. It requires special merit to warrant calling any car a special—and if the value isn't special the car quickly fades away.

Count the "Special-Sixes" that have appeared since the arrival of the Studebaker Special-Six. That's the proof of the value of the original Special-Six.

LOCAL AUTOISTS ADMIRE LINCOLN

Demonstrations Win Friends For Aristocrat of Motor World

The demonstrations that have been given during the past few weeks, since the Lincoln touring car was delivered to the Jesse E. Smith agency, 125 West Colorado, have made a number of firm friends for the car and have paved the way to a number of sales of this aristocrat of motordom.

W. Daniels, who has been selling Lincoln cars for several years and who knows the merits of the car from every angle, is in charge of this department of the selling end, and he predicts that before long Lincolns will be a common sight on the streets of Glendale, as he regards this city as an excellent market for the Lincoln.

Whether the individual requirement is based upon a definite sense of security, a desire for speed and power, or an appreciation of luxurious comfort, it finds its fullest realization in what the Lincoln does.

It outward appearance, Lincoln motor cars embody true refinement with rare beauty. There are ten body types from which to make a selection.

Be Thoughtful in Driving Car; Help To Make Road Safe

Petty violations of common-sense road rules are making auto travel hazardous in Pacific coast territory, according to notices issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Does your tail-light burn so that people can see it, or does it just glow about like a glow worm?

It is sometimes necessary to more than just comply with the law, says the Auto Club. A little common-sense used in motoring can often avert many serious accidents.

Glaring head-lights constitute one of the most serious factors and possible causes of accidents, with which California has to contend. According to motorcycle officers, the proper adjustment of head-lights would mean a reduction of fifty per cent in the number of night accidents. During the year 1922 more than $22,000 was assessed by Los Angeles courts for fines for faulty head-lights.

Auto Club officials state that if auto owners would use a little consideration in regulating their tail-light so that it will show clearly, and adjust head-lights in conformity with the law at least, the reduction of accidents in the southern part of the state would be remarkable. It is a good plan to examine your lights frequently and see if they are burning correctly. In Massachusetts strenuous measures are being taken to force motorists to properly illuminate their license plates in the rear and also to have their tail-lights burning brightly. It is probable that some similar action will be taken in the west.

Don't be a 'law abiding' motorist, be thoughtful and considerate.

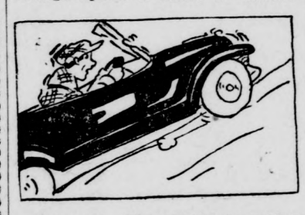
EFFECTS OF PRE-IGNITION

The effect of self-ignition, acting to prematurely increase the gas pressure in a cylinder against a piston which is still ascending upon its compression strike, is to tend to stop and reverse the direction of its movement and that of crank shaft rotation. Only the energy stored in the flywheel, which overcomes this backward tendency, prevents this from happening. All the effect of the explosion pressure upon the piston, up to the instant that it is ready to move downward upon its power stroke, is negative, that is, it is subtracted from the useful power effect and is expended in creating detrimental shocks and stresses upon the bearings and other engine parts, leaving very little power available to propel the car. All the fuel expended in producing cylinder pressures, which act negatively or backwards, is irrevocably lost. The knocking which one hears comes from the shocks sustained by engine parts, when subjected to reversely directed pressures, from minute changes in form of the connecting rod, crankshaft and other parts susceptible to bending and to the taking up of any looseness in the bearings under the influence of pressures suddenly reversing in direction. It is a well-known fact that the knocking of an engine caused by pre-ignition can usually be stopped by changing the car to a lower gear. When such a change is made, the engine speed corresponding with a given car speed instantly increases and likelihood that any self-ignition, which may be occurring shall prove premature is reduced. The load upon the engine being reduced by the gear-change, the throttle can be somewhat closed, thus reducing the compression pressure and the temperature attained in the combustion space, which in turn reduces the likelihood of any parts remaining hot enough to cause self-ignition or at least tends to cause any such ignitions, which may take place, to occur near enough at top stroke so that their effects are not serious.

WHAT IS "LABORING"?

A. T. L. asks: Can you explain what takes place when an engine is "laboring"? It seems my engine will not pull well unless given enough spark to make it "labor."



Answer: The engine is said to "labor" when there is a distinct difference in speed between the different parts of each turn of the crank-shaft, a slowing down especially during each compression stroke and a speeding up during each explosion stroke, resulting in jerky operation. "Laboring" always takes place when the resistance against which the engine is working is too great for the turning force which the engine is producing; for instance, when a steeper hill is being attempted on high than a car can really climb. As "laboring" becomes extreme, a point may be reached when a piston fails to pass compression and the cylinder does not fire, when stalling occurs. An engine should pull well without giving it spark enough to make it labor. Pounding is often confused with "labor." The latter may occur without the former, but an engine that is badly carbonized may knock when it has to pull heavily, or if there is "too much spark" it may pound when a heavy load is put on it.

"Service That Satisfies"

A. M. SHOFFNER IS 'RICK' AGENT HERE

Believes in Both Car and City; Headquarters at 120 So. Maryland

Arthur M. Shoffner has opened a Rickenbacker motor car agency at 120 South Maryland avenue, after looking over all the adjoining sections, picking Glendale as his headquarters because he believes that this is the sort of city where a high-class car can make a successful appeal.

Three models are now on display—a touring phaeton, a four-passenger coupe and a five-passenger sedan. In addition, Mr. Shoffner has a demonstrator. A complete service department will be conducted, he states, along the efficient, dependable lines established by dealers in the Rickenbacker automobile.

"The Rickenbacker is a new departure in automobile engineering," says Mr. Shoffner, "and has many features that make it uniquely desirable, among them the widely advertised two-flywheel principle, a vibrationless motor, and an air-purifier that practically eliminates carbon from the cylinders.

Ace of Aces

"I believe in this car, because I know automobiles and I know what is inside of it. Rickenbacker is the ace of aces. He made a record during the war that he would not sacrifice for millions. The American public have a great trust in him—and Rickenbacker is keeping that trust, in this machine he is offering to the American public.

"I am proud to be selling the Rickenbacker motor car, and I am proud to be selling it in Glendale. I believe firmly in both car and city. If I didn't, I wouldn't be associated with either one. I picked the Rickenbacker car and I picked Glendale. I think I have picked two winners."

PRODUCTION ESTIMATE

The production of automobiles in the United States this year, it is estimated, will exceed 2,400,000 vehicles, or a ten per cent increase over the yearly record of 2,205,000 in 1920.

BLOCKS PLAN TO AMEND LAW CODE

Official Reveals Frauds on Heirs of Estates by Greedy Claimants

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—Heir hunting—the finding of lost relatives—provided one of the most humanly interesting subjects to come before any committee of the legislature this session.

It bobbed up last evening in assembly judiciary where Attorney Whiteacre endeavored to amend the code relative to the naming of administrators. A representative of the San Francisco public administrator's office effectively opposed the measure by unburdening the many frauds which are perpetrated on lost heirs.

For instance, he told of an Irishman who died intestate and the heir hunters dug up his widow, whom he had deserted, and five children. They claimed to be the sole heirs. Investigation proved he had four other children by another wife.

An Italian passed away, leaving a wife in Sicily. Before the public administrator could cable her regarding the estate, the heir hunters had sent a special representative from Paris and gotten her to sign a "50 per cent contract" at midnight. A similar case occurred with an Irishman who left relatives in Erin.

Hidden Treasures

Still another Irishman died and two cousins in Canada claimed they were the sole heirs. Investigation revealed five other cousins living in almshouses in the old country. They reported their Canadian cousins had written them Pat left no estate.

Other instances of interest included one of a woman of the streets who left $6,000 in a safe deposit box under an assumed name. Her sisters and brother benefited. Another character who went about the streets crooning over an old skirt which she had bundled up, living off the Hebrew relief society, was found to have $11,000 done up in the bundle.

A recluse, leaving relatives in Iowa, passed away and when they claimed she was wealthy investigation over eighteen months finally revealed a false top on a table in the living room of her home, and in the hollow spaces were $28,000.

Thin on Wife's Food Unique Divorce Plea

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 14.—Robert K. Winslow declared that when he separated from his wife he weighed 100 pounds, but since eating food prepared by his mother he gained twenty-five pounds. This evidence was given by Winslow in contesting his wife's suit for divorce.

Mrs. Winslow countered by exhibiting a photograph of her husband showing that he was in good condition while living with her. The case was taken under advisement.

The nuts protected by the tariff are not the only nuts connected with that measure.

Dream True Index to Inner Man, Is Theory

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dreams are the most accurate index to a person's character and secret thoughts, according to Dr. Thomas V. Moore, professor of psychology at Catholic University here.

"Manifesting one's innermost desires and fears, dreams may easily be explained and, in many instances, accurately interpreted," said Dr. Moore.

The functions of the mind, Dr. Moore declared, are performed consciously and unconsciously.

"The former," he continued, "are noted in the daily routine of life, while the latter are the result of secret desires and longings which we often will not admit to ourselves in our conscious moments. These find expression in dreams, when the conscious mind is inoperative."

To interpret dreams, Dr. Moore said, soothsayers and fortune tellers, "most of whom are ignorant and totally unscientific," must be completely forgotten. Instead the dreamer should endeavor to associate his dream with some experience in the immediate past.

"Usually this will be found in some happening which has left an impression, or which has aroused a strong emotional reaction," he asserted.

"This is particularly true of dreams connected with sex. Desires consciously suppressed assert themselves naturally and forcefully in the unconscious mind. Often these are mixed with happenings in the dream which seemingly are unrelated to sex. Trivial incidents, which frequently are forgotten, also form the basis for dreams because they register themselves with the subconscious mind."

X-Ray Is Now Used To Test Swiss Cheese

NEW YORK, April 14.--Science has added another laurel wreath to itself for great accomplishments in the service of humanity.

It has finally solved the disturbing question of how to tell when the holes in a chunk of newly made Swiss cheese are sufficiently big to put it on the market.

The manufacturing of Swiss cheese—a young but rapidly growing American industry—has been fraught with many serious and perplexing problems. Cheese experts found it difficult to tell when the cheese was done, when the holes were big enough, and so forth.

But science, being now no longer a subject with which alchemists and other learned ones trifle, but a serious assistant in the fields of industry, was called in to advise suggest and air the whole matter of holes in Swiss cheese.

Said the learned men of science: "Why, of a surety you can tell when the holes are big enough. Just place your chunk of cheese under the X-ray.

"The photograph will tell whether it is done and whether the holes are big enough.

"You can thus save cutting the cheese open and wasting, in the long run, thousands of dollars that could be used to buy more material for more holes in cheese."

The manufacturers tried it.

And sure'nuff the X-ray detected the holes in the Swiss cheese, and the manufacturers were able to determine whether it was safe to put it on the market.

And the perplexing problem was solved.

The earnest and sincere man need look neither for friends nor for opportunity. They are searching for him.

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

The Lost Story

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The story Jack Jones wrote almost ended his honeymoon and all but broke his heart. He had started it with enthusiasm, using a plot he had treasured for years, and he found the words and sentences raced for place on the pages. It was a good story, Jack thought, and after the way of newspapermen, he started to plan what he would do with the money it would bring.

"It ought to bring $300 at least," the lad said. "Gosh, I could get married if I had all that money at once."

The more he thought of it and the more often he saw Helen Ames, the more attractive the idea appeared. Helen helped in the society department and her comings and goings were noticed by few in the office. To Jack the demure girl was one who had stepped out of his dreams. For a time he allowed himself to worship her from a distance, as a man will indulge in a fruitless quest for nothing but the experience. Then he started writing the story, thought it was good, and planned to get married.

"Of course it might be wiser to wait until the story is sold," he told Helen, "but I'm sure I can land it."

"If you will promise to finish it and send it off," the girl answered, "we will get married."

Strangely enough, the end of the story was the most difficult part. Jack held to his promise, and read each paragraph that was added to a bride who marveled at his brilliance.

Came the night when the thing was done. Jack put it in a stamped envelope with one addressed to himself, and said:

"I'll be going to work early. Will you take the story down and mail it?"

Helen set out with the family's future in her handbag. She stopped in several stores, bought a few things and looked at many more, and then sought the post-office. The story, Jack's bid for fame, was gone. Clerks in the stores she had visited helped the tearful bride in her search. Just in time to prepare dinner she returned home, frightened and wondering.

"In just a week now," Jack predicted, "the editor will be opening my story. He'll take a look at the name and he won't recognize it. Then he'll read the story and he'll scratch his head. 'This Jack Jones is a new one on me,' he'll say, 'but the story is good and I'll give it a chance.'"

And Jack was so happy in his anticipation that Helen did not have the heart to tell her secret.

After that it was more difficult. Several times the young wife braved herself to confess, but Jack was so full of plans of how to spend the money, so hopeful of success, she faltered.

"If I sell that one," he said, "it will give me new life, just the encouragement I need. Then I'll jump into a new one, and Helen, girl, we'll be made! It all depends on my luck this time, for if that isn't a good story I can't write one."

"All the same," Helen said, "I wish you had kept a copy. That editor might—might lose it." Unconsciously the frightened Helen was preparing to shift her blame on the editor. Time came when the check or the rejection should arrive. Jack asked eagerly each day if there had been any mail, and Helen, with aching conscience, shook her head. She would have to tell. Helen took a long walk on the day she decided to confess. When she returned to the house her mind was made up. There was a new look in her eyes. "I don't know what he'll say or do," she said to herself, "but I can't go on. I just know he'll feel terribly."

On the same day Jack walked slowly home from work. The wait for word from the story worried him. He knew it had been a good one and, much as the money meant, the encouragement of placing the story would mean more. At the dorstep he looked in the mailbox.

"Jack," Helen met him in the hall. "Jack, before I do another thing I am going to tell you what sort of a wife I am."

"And before you say another word, I am going to show you what sort of a writer I am," the husband replied. "See, the check came today. I just took it out of the mailbox."

Helen held the paper in her hands as if she could not believe her eyes. Then she laughed and cried, Jack laughed, and they danced. The rest of the evening the husband was full of new ideas and plots. He would start right away on another story.

"There might be a story," Helen ventured timidly, "about a lost letter, stamped and addressed, and about an honest person who found it and put it in a mailbox."

Then, with the check on the table before them, she told.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me, and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget to enclose a s. a. s. e. if you ask for an article.

Mr. F.—No, it is not foolish pride even at 82 that gives you your desire to reduce. At your age I would not advise any new strenuous exercises, and I would advise you to reduce very gradually, not over one-half to one pound a week.

Subscriber.—It is not unusual to have a little headache when you go on the three days' low-calorie liquid diet. On the second day of the liquid diet it usually appears. You might take a slice of dry toast a quarter of an inch thick (50 C.'s) with one-quarter of a pat of butter (25 C.'s, on it. That little bit of solid food might stay the headache. Don't let it break your morale, though. You can suffer a little headache rather than do that.

Mrs. E. W.—Your over-fat busts will be reduced when you reduce your general weight.

M. S.—One of the best ways to reduce the thighs and limbs is the rolling exercise on the floor. Or if you can take the rolling machine exercises or the electric vibratory chair exercises, they are good.

You need very little space to roll on the floor. Place some papers down, or a sheet. Lie flat on your back, roll completely over on one side, then completely back over to the other side. Begin with not more than ten rolls and increase to 100 or so.

Kicking exercises also will reduce the hips and thighs. I have a friend who reduced her hip measurement four inches by the kicking exercise alone. She did it night and morning and it was two months before she noticed the effect, so don't get discouraged.

F.—So you have reduced 62 pounds by following our directions and now you don't have to count your calories? Isn't that glorious! Here's an encouragement to those who are always worrying about having to "keep it up." You probably have found this, haven't you, F., that while you don't have to count calories, your tastes have markedly changed in the food line? You don't care for the concentrated sweets and the rich dishes that you used to, and the large helpings, do you?

You ask about a friend using salts to reduce. It is both unwise and unnecessary to use physics constantly. Unwise is too mild a word. It is absolutely harmful. While reducing, if there is constipation, even while eating a goodly amount of green leaf vegetables and coarse foods, the best way is to take two tablespoonsful of the non-medicated granulated agar—which can be got in any drug store—or take some bran in two glasses of water before the morning meal. Take it regularly at the same time every day and if it is not effective take a tablespoonful of liquid petrolatum—put up under different trade names — at night. Have a regular time for going to the toilet.

The following directions for knitting an "ear of corn" teapot holder has been sent to me by a reader to publish here for the benefit of another reader who recently asked for them.

"Corn Teapot Holder: Use two threads of Germantown yarn—one corn color and one white. Cast on 60 stitches. Knit 6 sts. with one color, 6 with the other color, always alternating color and being caretul to keep the straight thread on underside.

"Knit 30 ridges on right side, then on right side narrow in every other row of corn. Knit 5 ridges on right side, then narrow in other 5 rows of corn, after which narrow 1 st. in ever row of corn on right side, binding off when you have 10 sts.

"Fringe a bit of white silk or ribbon, scorch it a trifle and insert it in the tip. For the cob end, crochet a circle of single crochet to fit end of corn; attach a bow of green ribbon."—Mrs. E. B.

"Knitted Ear of Corn: One ball of lemon-color Germantown worsted and one ball of orange Germantown. Using the lemon color, cast on 30 sts. Knit 1 st. and purl 1 st. for 3 rows. Ninth Row: Increase until there are 50 sts. Tenth Row: Knit 5 sts. and, after fastening orange worsted, knit 5 sts. of that color. Carry the lemon worsted on the underside of the knitting and knit 5 of the lemon color. Continue this throughout the row.

"Eleventh Row: Knit 5 sts. of the lemon worsted and carry orange on the inside of the work and in front of the needle, so that it is ready to continue knitting. Carry the lemon in front of the needle so that it is on the inside. Knit 5 orange. Continue these two rows for about 25 ribs, or 50 rows. Sixty-second Row: Narrow off 1 st. at beginning of each kernel. Sixty-third row: Knit plain. Sixty-fourth Row: Narrow off 1 st. at end of each kernel. Continue until all the stitches are decreased. Sew up the side for an inch from each end, leaving hole for the teapot handle. Put feather-stitching of browng sewing silk on the pointed end and leave ends two inches long. Put a rosette of narrow light-green ribbon on other end."—M. S.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

A COMPLEXION CHAT

From Paris comes a story of an odd sort of beauty treatment. French women with oily skins wipe their faces over night with benzine. This highly volatile liquid is drying, therefore takes the surplus grease from the face—as it does from one's dress!—and is very cleansing.

All of which would be sensible enough, were it not that gasoline or benzine explodes so easily. I never advise its use at all, except for cleaning clothes out of doors and well away from the house! I certainly shouldn't advise it for complexion purposes indoors, we're all apt to be careless, and carelessness and benzine are a bad combination.

That reminds me, by the way, that some of the smartest beauty shops give a "dry" shampoo with benzine. It takes the grease and dirt from scalp and hair, leaving it beautifully clean and glossy, and does away with the risk of a cold in the head. But there you are in the hands of an expert, in a special room where no open flame can come.

Here's an excellent treatment for a dry skin. Wipe it over at night with a thin oatmeal gruel—save the soft liquid from your breakfast porridge. Rub this into the skin and wipe off gently, and never mind the slight stickiness, this will dry off. This feeds the skin and makes it delightfully fine grained.

By the way, a walk in the rain, with the rain beating against the face, is marvelous for any complexion. That's why the English have such skins— damp climate, thick fogs and frequent rain. A cold, beating rain will stimulate and sting the skin to activity, a warm rain is refreshing if not so stimulating.

Marjorie.—A girl of 14, height four feet ten inches would be normal weght at 110 pounds, but this should not be considered too seriously, as growing children vary so in their development. We all know how they sometimes appear not to grow at all for a year or more, and then in another half year make up for the apparent lack. The general health should be the guide in such cases.

Charlotte Y.—Thank you very much for your helpful suggestion about treating frosted feet. I shall be glad to pass it along to the readers as soon as there is space for it.

Anxious Thelma:—If the bones in your ankle have healed there should be no reason why you should not dance again; in fact, you need exercise now to strengthen the bones and all the muscles surrounding them. Since you are avoiding exercise, this lack of it may be causing your extra weight. Massage the ankles every day to strengthen and build up the muscles again. And take as much exercise as you need to keep down this excess weight.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

"BEHIND THE RANGES"

My heart is warm with the friends I make,
And better friends I'll not be knowing—
Yet there isn't a train I wouldn't take,
—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Don't you think there's something eternal fascinating about the sight of a long, long train, with a great big important engine evidently ready for a trip to some place a thousand miles away?

I never see such a train just about to pull out of the station where I am waiting to climb onto my measly local that I don't feel a longing to jump on it at the last minute.

And even when I am in the station and hear the porter calling the long distance train, the long list of stations rolling sonorously forth, mostly indistinguishable but now and then yielding me some city that is only a name (and undoubtedly more fascinating for that), I feel as if it were the red gods and not the porter who were calling.

Lucky Man!

When the man beside me at the lunch counter slides off his stool and picks up his bags at the announcer's call, my eyes follow him longingly. He is going on that wonderful train. Lucky man! Perhaps he is a commercial traveler bored to death at the thought of the old familiar round, but I'll bet he was once a boy who always wanted to jump onto long trains when he saw them pulling out, and that's how he happened to become a commercial traveler.

As for ship travel,—I can never bear to see anyone off on a ship because I want so poignantly to go, too.

In all the realm of music or instrument I think there is nothing as beautiful as the call: "All ashore that's going ashore, all aboard that's going aboard," if it is heard from the ship side of the gangplank and one is waving farewell instead of being waved farewell to.

The Great Adventure

Oh, that wonderful last confusion, the rushing back and forth, the order to lift the gangplank given and then countermanded as someone leaps from a cab and dashes onto the wharf, the creaking of ropes, the throbbing of engines, the churning of the water. The faces on the wharf growing dim, the travelers turning from the rail to go down to their staterooms, the glances of interest the fellow travelers cast at each other to see with what sort of folks they are to share the great adventure. There, just writing about it I have worked myself up so that I feel as if I must, must be hearing that "all ashore that's going ashore."

Once when I had my rooms all engaged at a little summer hotel for my vacation I saw the picture of a steamer chair in a magazine and it brought me a vision of steamer chairs on sunny decks so vivid that I changed my plans and took a sea trip instead.

Your Ship May Sail

Yes, I know there are some Reader Friends who'll be thinking I'm a wee bit daffy and wondering I wouldn't keep it to myself instead of blazoning my foolishness abroad. But this is why I do it. Because of the other Reader Friends who are heaving a sigh and saying, "That's just the way I feel, I wonder if I shall ever see the world."

Dear folks, I hope you will, and even if it doesn't look as if you would just now, cheer up. You never can tell. I know a lady between 60 and 70 who inherited $5,000. She was a nurse, and she took that money and saw the world with it and then came back and went to nursing and died in the harness. Wasn't that beautiful?

Seek Buried Treasure In Ohio Coal Mine

POMEROY, Ohio, April 14.—Search for "treasure" reputed to aggregate $150,000 has been started in an old coal mine on the Rothgeb farm, near here. The story is that when General John Morgan and his raiders surrendered on the Rothgeb farm, during the civil war, they had buried perhaps $150,000 in United States greenbacks and coin. This currency, it is claimed, was confiscated during the raid by Morgan and his men.

For years after the civil war ended confederates came from the south to hunt over the farm, after writing for permission. What they found has never been disclosed.

Just a few more weeks until gardeners will be making two weeds grow where only one grew before.

Kemal Determined to Regain Turk Freedom

SOFIA, April 13.—"Mother, who gave me life and energy and will, I vow at your grave that I shall not cease my efforts until our common parent, our dear fatherland, is completely re-established as a free and independent state."

Mustapha Kemel Pasha, hero of the Turkish nation, recently visited the grave of his mother at Smyrna. Amid a drastic silence, his voice sobbing, Mustapha raised his hand and swore this oath.

Today that oath has become a watchword throughout Turkey. It may be regarded as the expression of a nationalist spirit that has seized upon the entire Turkish people, and in it may be found the explanation of Turkey's firm stand against the allies in the present Near East crisis.

Interesting incidents in the life of Mustapha Kemel Pasha are being recounted throughout the Near East since his rise to power. Tales of his fearlessness and his adamantine will have spread throughout the Turkish nation and have served greatly to enhance Kemal's prestige as the greatest Angorite of the day.

It has been revealed that Kemal is not a Turk at all, but a Pomack, which means a Moslemized Bulgar. He is a native of the small Macedonian town of Prilep and was an officer in the company of Macedonian revolutionaries that brought about the fall of Abdul Hamid. It was there that he learned the military tactics that enabled him to lead the Turkish forces victoriously against the Greeks.

Rescue Ideals From The Junk Pile

CONTRARY to the belief held by a great many people that the church is losing prestige and going backward, church membership in this country is growing rapidly, much faster than the increase in population, in spite of the influx of Europeans who do not retain the religion of their fathers when they come to this country.

All members of Christian churches are not, at heart, Christians, neither are all Christians members of churches. Yet a tabulation of the number of church members in Glendale will give a number close to the per cent of Glendale's population that is striving toward high ideals, both personally and for the community in which they live.

A man once said that when he discarded the habit of church-going his back yard began to fill with shattered ideals.

Association with people who, though imperfect, are making a constant effort toward a higher and better standard and plane of living and service will result in the rescue of some of your early ideals and abandoned faith.

The church is not going backward. Despite the influence of an age of jazz, or perhaps because of it, there is an increasing interest in the church day by day. Figures alone prove this. The only real satisfaction in life comes from a striving for the higher things. The church fosters faith and optimism and helps the individual toward his ideals.

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—H. K. Reynolds, Washington correspondent, comments on the rapidly growing importance of radio, and discusses its international aspects.

MONDAY—Move to establish jury verdicts on basis of three-fourths of the jury's opinion and abolition of preliminary examinations when defendant indicates inclination to plead guilty gaining momentum in California, writes William G. Cayce, Los Angeles correspondent.

For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The world has gone radio mad.

The amazing development of wireless communication during and since the World War has made it not only a commercial necessity and a widespread source of pleasure and recreation in all civilized countries, but it has added to the difficulties and worries of these nations, both in their domestic and international affairs.

There are about 3,000,000 amateur radio operators in the United States today—all clamoring for a chance to use the air and getting into trouble continually with the big stations maintained by the government for the transaction of its official business.

The interference resulting from this situation was partly straightened out a year ago by the department of commerce, but new troubles arose so rapidly and so persistently that it became necessary for Secretary of Commerce Hoover to call another national radio parley here this month to "unscramble the air."

New regulations were adopted with a view to giving the amateurs and commercial operators an even break. This was accomplished through agreements limiting certain stations to the use of wave lengths which would not interfere with the operations of other stations.

The government's radio experts declare, however, that changes will be necessary in these wave length allocations from time to time because of the increasing number of sending and receiving stations in all parts of the country.

Chief Radio Inspector Terrell estimates that there will be 10,000,000 radio stations in the United States within the next ten years.

The navy department, which handles most of the government's international wireless business, was represented in the Hoover conference along with the other federal departments which are making daily use of the air in the dissemination of information to the public and handling internal affairs.

Because of its extensive radio facilities. the navy is able to transact a great deal of private communication, such as news messages, etc., but only ventures into the field when other mediums are not available.

Secretary of State Hughes also has radio troubles, but most of them are international, although they have developed from the efforts of American wireless companies to venture into foreign fields.

At the present time the United States is having a quiet quarrel with Japan over radio rights in China.

On the basis of a contract made with the Chinese government by the big Mitsui Company, the Japanese government is seeking to bar American interests from building wireless stations in China, despite the claims of the Federal Telegraph Company of California.

The British and Danish governments are also seeking wireless concessions in China, but the principal argument just now is going on between Washington and Tokio.

The Mitsui Company contract was made in 1918 and the Federal Company claims a prior right to erect a powerful station in China.

The attitude of the United States, as enunciated by Secretary Hughes, is that this government insists upon the maintenance of the "open door" in the Far East and that there is plenty of room for everybody in the development of Chinese radio facilities.

The use of radio in war is also receiving the attention of President Harding and Secretary Hughes, with the result that a treaty will be presented to Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy to govern wireless communication in the next war.

This treaty will be a continuation of the work of the Washington armament conference, which authorized the establishment of an international commission to submit recommendations for new rules governing the use of radio and aircraft.

The recommendations have been sent to Washington from The Hague and are now being studied by officials of the state, war and navy departments.

Bulgaria Women Are Really Free, Is Claim

LONDON, April 14.—Little Bulgaria is far ahead of many of its sister nations when it comes to the question of women, according to Mlle. Nadejda Stancioff, secretary-designate to the Bulgarian Legation in Washington.

Mlle. Stancioff has recently returned from Lausanne, where she served as a member of the Bulgarian delegation at the Near East peace conference and where she had an opportunity of studying the attitude of Europe's leading statesmen with regard to women.

"Men can't do any worse with the help of women than they have done without," said Mlle Stancioff in an interview, her black eyes snapping with a fire that was convincing of her sincerity.

"Why, do you know, that the idea of woman's inferiority to man does not exist in Bulgaria?" she continued.

"Work is equally shared between man and woman in Bulgaria. Thus in a lawyer's house, for instance, it is a common thing for the wife to help her husband with his business in the morning in return for which he helps with the children in the afternoon.

"All the professions are open to women, and the women have none of the handicaps which they have in other countries. Why, I don't believe in France a woman would call in a woman doctor. Yes, and I know that is true to some extent in England, too.

"There is no reason why women should not succeed in any field—diplomacy, the law or medicine.

"The men could certainly do no less well with our help than they have done without it, could they?" Here there was a bit of sadness came into the eyes of this first woman diplomat. Perhaps she was thinking of the struggles that Bulgaria has gone through to maintain herself.

Fire Alarm Overcomes Rum Peddler's Guard

HAMMOND, Ind., April 14.—Frank Gataarich, Hammond saloon keeper, believes the story about the curious cat now.

Police had been after Frank for some time, but never could find anything wrong with his place.

Then they turned in a fire alarm from opposite his saloon. While Frank was outside to see what it was all about, the coppers slipped in the back way of the saloon and found two quarts of moonshine.

Frank rode to jail on the fire truck.

Much less courage is needed to bluster out a defiance before our enemies than is needed to simply state the truth as we see it, and quietly stand by it. After all, quiet steadfastness can always be trusted to carry conviction.

Antique Furniture Made While You Wait

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Antique furniture is made while you wait in Seville.

This is the warning given to American tourists by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, whose representative in Spain advises that the makers of antique furniture are becoming so expert that they can put imitation wormholes in wood to simulate the work of real worms so effectively that only connoisseurs can tell the difference.

"Thousands of tourists, the majority of them Americans," Consul William G. Burdett reports, "visit Seville every year to view the historical and other attractions which have made Andalusia famous, and these tourists form the chief and by far the most profitable customers of the antique dealers.

"During the summer, which is the dull season for tourists in Seville, the dealers ransack the remote villages of rural Spain and the obscure corners of the cities for every conceivable article of artistic or antiquarian value."

Seville antiques are principally mahogany chairs and tables, chests of all periods, vargueno desks, iron screens, windows, embroidered silk shawls, laces, damasks, mantillas, ceramics, paintings, panelled doors, copper and brasswork.

Accused Slayer Bites On Bullet From Body

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 14.—No incident more terrible, more dramatic or more grewsome featured the murder trial of Fred Deal, Florida negro, cnarged with shooting to death Constable Robert G. McBeath, V. C., than when the accused man, who had been called to the witness stand, was handed the bullet that had been taken from the dead man's body.

He looked at it, but could not tell what the calibre was. Irritated, the prosecuting attorney handed a revolver to Deal. It was the gun that had been in the hands of the accused on the night of the shooting. Deal was told to see if the bullet fitted the gun. He slipped it in place. It fitted so snugly Deal had to use his teeth to extract it. As the bullet reposed in the negro's mouth many in court shivered and turned their heads away. First in the body of the slain man, then between the lips of the accused!

"Anger is a weapon that is handled by the blade," and he who uses it is sure to inflict the deepest wounds upon himself. Wrath may strike heavy blows, but it cuts into the soul of the one who makes it his instrument.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE RAIN

Uncle Wiggily stood in front of his hollow stump bungalow, looking at his automobile which he had just run out of the garage.

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Are you out of gas?"

"No," answered the bunny rabbit gentleman, "but my auto is so muddy it needs cleaning. I'm going to Dr. Possum's drug store and get a big sponge with which to scrub my car. I'll be back soon, Nurse Jane."

"You had better hurry back," advised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "for it is going to April shower, I think. And while that may be a good thing for your auto, since leaving it out in the rain will wash the mud off, still you had better not get wet."

"You are right," said Uncle Wiggily. "So I'll hop very quickly to Dr. Possum's drug store, get myself a big sponge to wash my car, and I'll hop back before it rains."

In Dr. Possum's drug store Uncle Wiggily looked at sponges.

"They are very small, and hard and dry," objected the bunny rabbit gentleman. "I think these would scratch my auto. Besides they aren't large enough, I want a big sponge."

"These will swell up very large once they are wet," said Dr. Possum with a quirk of his long tail. "They will also become very soft. All sponges are small and hard when they are dry. But they get soft and grow large when they soak up water.

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll take one, and I must hurry home before it rains, as it looks as though it might."

The bunny gentleman stuffed the hard, small, dry sponge in his side coat pocket and on he hopped to his hollow stump bungalow. He had not gone very far before it began to rain very hard.

"My! I'm going to get soaking wet!" thought Uncle Wiggily as he hopped along without an umbrella. "Well, it's a good thing I have on old clothes, for I was going to clean the car. And water won't hurt the sponge. I wonder if it's all right?"

He looked at the sponge in his side pocket. To his surprise there was a big lump on the coat.

"Ha! That must be the sponge swelling up because it is getting wet," thought Uncle Wiggily.

And so it was. The rain, pouring down, dropped into Uncle Wiggily's coat pocket and soaked into the dry sponge, causing it to swell larger and larger. The sponge held a lot of water.

"No matter," thought the bunny gentleman. "I should have brought an umbrella, though. Nurse Jane will laugh at me for getting caught in the rain."

Once Wiggily was hopping along as fast as he could, when, all of a sudden, out from behind a tree sprang the bad old Bob Cat in a rubber coat and wearing his rubber boots.

"Ah, ha!" snarled the Bob Cat. "I've caught you again, Uncle Wiggily, and even if I wade in a mud puddle no snapping turtle can bite me, for I have on my rubber boots! I have you!"

"Yes, I see you have!" sadly said the bunny. "What are you going to do to me?"

"Nibble your ears!" howled the Bob Cat. With that he caught Uncle Wiggily in his paws, around the bunny's waist, lifting him off his feet. But as the Bob Cat squeezed the rabbit very hard he also squeezed the wet sponge, and from the sponge a stream of water ran out of the rabbit's coat pocket, down inside the Bob Cat's rubber boots.

"Wow! What's this! Water running in my boots! Oh, the water is running out of you!" howled the bad chap, as he saw the stream coming from Uncle Wiggily's pocket. "Say, what are you, anyhow; one of those trick magicians like on the stage? Oh, I guess I'd better not nibble your ears after all. You might turn me into a chunk of cheese! Oh, my boots are full of water! Oh, I'll catch the ker-snuffles! I know I will! Oh, what a funny rabbit!"

And, dropping Uncle Wiggily, wet sponge and all, away ran the Bob Cat, splishy splashy, with his paws going chuggity chiggity ker-zung inside his wet boots.

"Ha! Ha! laughed the rabbit gentleman as he hopped on through the rain. "It's a good thing I bought that sponge." And when the shower was over he cleaned his auto and took Nurse Jane for a ride.

And if the toothbrush doesn't whitewash the rag doll's chocolate cake so that it looks like a snowball, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the high water.

ELECTRICAL CURRENT

The current flowing in a circuit is no stronger at one point of the circuit than at another. This can be proved by connecting a measuring instrument called an ammeter into the circuit at different points and making comparative readings. It will be found to register the same at whatever point this test is made. A useful illustration of the electric circuit is a closed circuit of pipe completely filled with water and provided with a pump or some other device for causing the water to circulate. The amount of water which leaves a given point in each second is just the same as the amount which arrives in the same length of time. Now in the electric circuit we have no material fluid, but we suppose that there exists a substance which we call electricity. Electricity behaves in a circuit much like an incompressible fluid in a pipe line. We are very sure that electricity is not like any material substance that we know of, but the common practice among workers in the electrical field of calling it "juice" shows that they think of it analogously as a fluid. We will, then ,imagine the electric current to be a stream of electricity flowing around the circuit.

One way of measuring the rapidity with which water is flowing, is to let it pass through a meter which registers the total number of gallons or quarts which passes through. By dividing the quantity by the time it has taken to flow or pass, we may obtain the rapidity of the flow. There are instruments by which it is possible to measure the total quantity of electricity which passes in a circuit during a certain time. If we divide this quantity by the time, we obtain the amount of electricity which has passed in one second. This is a measure of the current strength.

In practice, however, the strength of the current is measured by instruments known as ammeters, which shows at any moment how strong the current is. It also enables us to note, at a glance, what changes take place from moment to moment. We may, also, by means of an instrument known as an amperehour meter, ascertain the amount of energy that has passed over the circuit. These two recording instruments would therefore correspond to the speedometer of an automobile where, on one dial, is recording the number of miles the auto is speeding, and on a second dial the total number of miles the car has traveled.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

A VARIABLE GRID LEAK

This device is particularly useful with vacuum tubes of the "soft" type, used as detectors, where adjustable leak resistance is desirable for the best operation of the tube. By placing the switch lever midway on the contacts and bringing the filament up to proper brilliancy it will at once be noted that by moving the switch lever either to the right or left an increase of signal strength is obtainable. It may also be noted by switching to zero or off position that this is done at a materially less value of filament current.

It consists of ten separate value of grid resistances ranging from one-half megohm of five megohms in steps of approximately one-half megohm.

Each tube, whether detector, amplifier or oscillator, requires different values of resistance, depending upon its operating characteristics. This device saves the purchase of several of different values.

Syracuse to Be Host For Tennis Tourney

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 14.—Syracuse Sedgwick Farm Club courts will again be the scene of the New York state championship tennis tournament this year, Stewart F. Raleigh local representative of the United States Lawn Tennis association, has announced. The play will open week of July 16.

The tournament was conducted here last season for the first time in many years. It was a decided success, with tennis stars of international note and representing different countries competing. Even a greater galaxy of court exponents is expected this year.

Herbert Bowman, of New York, won the men's singles last year from Fred Anderson, former Syracuse crack. It is possible that William T. Tilden, 2d, present world singles champ, will be seen in an exhibition match here this summer in connection with the tournament.

Orpheus Club To Give Concert Tonight Under Auspices Of Glendale Kiwanians

THEY WILL OFFER HARMONY AT CONCERT TONIGHT

Here are four members of the Orpheus Club. They will please the crowd attending the concert tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium. The Glendale Kiwanis Club is staging the affair.

"The Orpheus club, of Los Angeles, to sing twenty numbers tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium, are regarded as one of the leading choral organizations in the United States, and their presence in Glendale is a musical event of importance," states M. B. Towman, business manager of the concert, which is being put on under the auspices of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

Very few tickets remain unsold, says Mr. Towman, and these may be obtained at the Automobile club headquarters, 248 South Brand; at Roberts & Echols' Drug store, 102 East Broadway; and at the Glendale pharmacy, 638 East Broadway.

O. W. Andresen, of 360 Myrtle street, musical director of the Kiwanis club and also a member of the Orpheus club, says that the program to be given tonight is an unusually fine one and has been very successful and well received whenever given.

Al Ferguson, president of the local Kiwanis club, feels that this concert is a real opportunity for Glendale people to hear the best in music.

GLENDALE ELKS BEAT LONG BEACH

Local Pin Knockers Annex Long End of Score in Game Last Night

The Glendale Elks sprung a surprise on the Long Beach delegation last night, at the alleys of the East Colorado street lodge house, when Captain Joe Fortunato and his crack team of ball-rollers won a three-frame contest by the satisfying score of 2869 to 2512, taking every frame. The debacle was witnessed by about fifty visiting Elks.

The score by games follows:

Long Beach	779	863	874
Glendale	916	931	1022

From which it is obvious that the Long Beach bowlers didn't have a look-in.

The Glendale team was represented by Captain, Fortunato, Naser, Apffel, Royls and Brohme; while the Long Beach outfit consisted of Captain Dassett, Whidden, Schinner, Cady and Faulstich. After the game all adjourned to Pope's cafe and had a late luncheon.

As this is the first time in five years the Glendale lodge has come out on the long end in bowling tussles with the Long Beach lodge, Captain Fortunato and his "Merry Men" are rejoicing in the greenwood today.

BALL SEASON TO OPEN ON SUNDAY

Uniforms for Glendale Team Greatest Need, Says Manager Heidler

The Glendale baseball team opens its season in the San Fernando Valley league, Sunday afternoon, April 15, with a game on the home grounds with the Owensmouth club. The game is called for 2:30 o'clock.

As first place in the league carries with it a number of fine trophies, among them a cash prize of $150, Manager Walt Heidler wants to assure the fans that his team is going out strong for first place. Every game, he says, will be well worth seeing and he is going to look for a lot of support.

The grounds at Park and San Fernando are being straightened up. The grass has been mowed and a backstop erected, together with a number of seats, in preparation for Sunday's game.

The greatest need of the team at the present time is uniforms, reports Manager Heidler. The league has a ruling that each team must be properly uniformed, and this hits only Glendale's team as all the other entries are said to be well equipped.

Uniforms Are Needed

A suggestion was made to Manager Heidler that he might get each of the larger business houses of Glendale to buy a suit, providing the name of the firm was sewed on the back. This may work out but it is felt that such a method of advertising would not only be detrimental to the team but would look as though this city was not able to compete with the other cities of the league.

A far more effective method of equipping the team, Manager Heidler feels, would be for the merchants to get together and each buy one suit, without thought of gain. Each merchant so cooperating would gain through the publicity attached to such an act more than through direct advertising, he feels.

At any rate, some way will be found to equip the boys with suits, if the business men and residents of this city can be made to realize that Glendale has a ball team—and a good one. The best way to prove that this latter assertion is so, will be to turn out for Sunday's game.

Government to Quit Shipping Business

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The government will "get out of the shipping business," if it can find purchasers for its ships and lines; if it cannot, then the government will continue in the shipping business, economizing as much as possible.

This was the upshot today of an extended conference between President Harding, Chairman A. D. Lasker and the entire personnel of the United States shipping board. The decision on this policy was announced as unanimous.

The government should be able to determine within sixty days, or by June 15, whether it can effect a satisfactory sale of its shipping holdings, Chairman Lasker announced.

Booth Tarkington's Daughter Is Dead

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14.—The light of the life of Booth Tarkington, playwright and author, has gone out. Laurel, 17, who furnished inspiration for many of her father's plays and stories of adolescence, among them "Seventeen," is dead here from pneumonia. Death came with her father at the bedside. The mother, Mrs. Willard Connolly, from whom Tarkington was divorced several years ago, was on her way from Cambridge, Mass., today. Laurel was born in Rome, February 9, 1906.

Glendale Fans Attend Bouts at Pasadena

About twenty-five Glendale fight fans saw John Myers and Charles Ray battle to a draw, Thursday night, in the National Guard armory, Pasadena, says Leslie Marston, who was one of those present.

If Americans have given Europe all the moral support she needs, they might try giving a little to America.

LEGISLATORS ARE WEE BIT WORRIED

Two Lawmakers Get in Trap Then Express Opinions Before Committee

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—Members of the assembly motor vehicles committee enjoyed a two ring circus last evening while considering Pomeroy's bill to do away with speed traps.

Assemblyman George Davis of Imperial and Dr. Ernest Dozier of Redding gave vent to their feelings regarding speed laws, motor cops and present regulations.

Both were arrested during the constitutional recess on charges of speeding and both claimed immunity. But the judges in both instances have declared they will have to appear for sentence or bench warrants will be issued fifteen days after the close of the legislature when their immunity expires.

Davis is sorely worried, because the scene of his alleged offense is Santa Barbara county, more than 250 miles from his Imperial home. He doesn't want to see the mission city—not at all, not at all.

Dozier doesn't care so much, because he was arrested nearer home, yet he feels it is not only a legislator's privilege, but a doctor's prerogative to step on the gas.

So both he and Davis stepped on the gas in giving a lot of hot air to the motor vehicles committee and it may be that speed traps, speed cops, speed courts and speeding itself will be eliminated from the laws.

Inspect College

Friday afternoon was a very tame affair in legislative halls, the solons going to Davis to inspect the state agricultural college.

The assembly seems to have its difficulties in getting things done in apple pie order. The other morning the representatives found their files scrambled—everybody had somebody else's stack of books and a near riot ensued. Attaches evidently had been careless as to who was who.

And today the heads of the bill room, the printing office, the speaker of the house and chairman of the assembly finance committee are congratulating themselves that amendments to the general appropriation bill 999, including Richardson's latest recommendations, have been straightened out.

Yesterday it appeared that somebody had irreparably changed the "rubber stamped" approval of the supplemental budget figures. Certainly, as printed, they were not what Richardson recommended.

So it was that Frank Merriam, Frank Smith, Chester Kline, Mrs. Nellie Pierce, not to mention a half dozen others, had their heads together solving one of those puzzles that only a printer can promote.

JOINS M'CORMICK FAMILY AT LAST

Swiss Riding Master Weds Heiress in Dingy London Registry

By F. A. WRAY
For International News Service

LONDON, April 14.—Despite their romantic courtship, which aroused the jaded interest of two continents, the marriage of pretty 18-year-old Mathilde McCormick, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, and Major Max Oser, the middle-aged Swiss riding master, was as prosaic as the nuptials of any two persons in the most humble ranks of life, it became known today through friends.

The exclusive announcement of the marriage, circulated by International News Service Friday, was confirmed in every detail.

Mathilde and Max Oser were married at the registry office in Lewisham, a suburb southeast of London, near Greenwich, inhabited by persons in the middle class, such as shopkeepers and well-to-do artisans.

When the couple entered the dingy, smoke-grimed registry office they found a crowd of persons before them. Major Oser held Mathilde gently by the arm. They spoke together in low tones and then sat down to wait their turn.

Two registrars, Frank Blecham and W. R. Owen, performed the ceremony.

Leave On Honeymoon

For the first time Major Oser's exact age was officially revealed. The license showed he was 45. Mathilde celebrated her eighteenth birthday one week ago.

Major Oser gave his full name as William Max Oser, bachelor, and soldier by profession. Mathilde, who had been living most of the winter in a little flat in Kensington, said she was a "spinster of independent means."

For nearly a month before the ceremony, Oser had been living in Hither Green to establish a legal residence in the district covered by the Lewisham registry office.

The couple left London as quietly as they were married. Some believe they have gone to Scotland. Others think they are on their way to Switzerland. Their real destination is known only to the happy bride and groom.

SOUTHERN CALIF. GAS CO. MOVES TO NEW HOME

$45,000 Building Planned To Care For Growing Glendale Business

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY'S HANDSOME NEW OFFICE BUILDING

Thirteen years of growth that has matched that of Glendale itself, the Fastest Growing City in America, finds the concern that started business here with five miles of gas mains to supply 761 customers now furnishing gas to 8929 consumers in this city through 105 miles of mains, and still planning ahead to meet the business that is increasing every month.

The Southern California Gas Company is moving this week-end from 112 West Broadway to 126 North Maryland avenue where it is now housed in its new $45,000 business home.

The Southern California Gas Company's new building was designed particularly to meet the needs of its patrons in this vicinity and to encourage the efficiency of its sixty employes.

Brick, hollow tile and concrete were the principal materials used in the new structure which is absolutely fire proof. Good light and excellent ventilation are features of its interior.

The new establishment occupies fully two lots on the east side of Maryland avenue. These have a frontage of 88 feet and a depth of 130 feet.

The front of the building is of cream colored stucco over hollow tile and ornamented extensively with terra cotta. On either side of the main entrance are pillars of concrete. Two large display windows, each 27 feet long and 6 feet wide, exhibit the various appliances marketed by the Southern California Gas Company.

The business lobby, occupies a space of 25 to 40 feet in size. It is divided on the north side from the clerical room, which is 30 by 55 feet in size, by a breast-high partition of gum wood finished to resemble Circassian walnut. This has a base board of verde-antique marble. Four groups of three windows each on the north side of the building assure the twenty employes of this department of plenty of fresh air and sunshine. On the south wall of the lobby is a large mantel of Batchelder tile in which has been installed a radiant-fire gas hearth.

Phone Exchange

A telephone exchange located at the east end of the office connects all portions of the building. There are two outside wires, Glendale 714 and 715.

To the rear of the office is a retiring room for women employes, a fireproof vault for stationery, and spacious offices for R. S. Cheatham, district agent, and S. C. Singer, division manager for the San Fernando valley.

The front and rear of the building are connected by a passage way about 20 feet long. Walls of cream colored plaster insure good light at all times.

A cement floored garage capable of housing all of the 26 service automobiles operated by this branch extends the full width of the building. This is about 35 feet wide. It has three seventeen foot entrances, one from a driveway on the north side of the building and to the rear. Almost the entire east end of the building is of glass.

The south side of the building is occupied by a large store room for supplies. This is 25 by 80 feet in size. Along its south side is a row of bins in which all the numerous fittings will be arranged alphabetically and according to size. Adjoining this room on the north side are smaller rooms one of which is a meter testing room and is equipped with the necessary apparatus while the other is the store keeper's office and stock record room.

Adjoining the garage on the north side of the building is the dispatcher's office. This will be the headquarters of the maintenance and installation department. Instructions will be issued here to the forty men in the service department.

Room For Storage

To the rear of the building, across the full width of the property and 30 feet wide, is a storage yard. This contains racks for the storage of pipe. An underground tank, capable of holding several hundred gallons of gasoline, is tapped by a private filling station.

"Coincident with the completion of the Southern California Gas Company office building, the month of April also marks the month in 1910 in which the Company completed the transmission line and distribution system which first supplied gas to the then small communities of Glendale and Tropico.

"The system at that time," said S. C. Singer, division manager, "consisted of approximately 5 miles of main and supplied gas to 761 consumers. The gas was brought from the Company's Los Angeles Plant by a 6 inch transmission line some 9 miles in length. On January 1, 1915 the system had increased to 46 miles of main and 5,139 meters and at the present time there are 105 miles of distribution mains and 8,929 consumers in the City of Glendale. In the entire San Fernando Valley there is a total of 164 miles of mains and 15,946 active consumers, an excellent indication of the tremendous growth of Glendale and surrounding territory during the last thirteen years.

"Anticipating a continuance of this rapid expansion the Company's new building has been designed to provide adequate facilities to meet increasing demands for service. The lobby has space arranged for the display of the complete line of gas appliances, another branch of Southern California Gas Company's "Dependable Service."

CRIME POOR PAY, SAYS DETECTIVE

Nick Harris Is Speaker at Kiwanis Club Luncheon At Noon Yesterday

Nick Harris, private detective, of Los Angeles, was the speaker yesterday noon in the Tuesday Afternoon club's banquet hall at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

Mr. Harris related the story of the capture of Charles Chandeles in a "trick" trunk in the vault of the Hollywood Storage Company, which he intended to rob, as proof of the fact that crime does not pay. He stated that Mr. Chandeles had spent five years planning his method of procedure, and inquired how novices expected to succeed in crime.

According to Mr. Harris, crime usually has one or two endings—the open door of the prison cell or a violent death. He called attention to the fact that Chandeles is now in a penitentiary, while his accomplice, 17-year-old Earl Wilson, died a violent death while awaiting trial.

The trunk in which Mr. Chandeles was captured, as well as a flashlight photograph of him emerging from the trunk, were both on exhibition.

Younger Generation

The attitude of the younger generation toward law and order is being improved in the opinion of Mr. Harris. He pointed out the fact that children, who used to be frightened by their parents into having a dread and fear of policemen, are now taught to depend upon the traffic officers at crossings.

Sergeant James Ellice of the Vancouver police department was one of the guests at the luncheon. Leslie B. Henry of Pasadena, vice-president of Kiwanis International, was another guest.

The music included the singing of "Peggy O'Neil" as an impromptu duet by O. W. Andresen and Mayor Spencer Robinson, accompanied by "Herb" Henning.

The attendance prize was won by Councilman-elect W. A. Horn. It was an order from Kiwanian Eugene F. Gordon's shop at 119 North Brand boulevard for half a dozen pairs of silk sox.

High School Pupils Will Be on Program

Seven male members of the high school dramatic department are now rehearsing "Dogberry's Charge of the Watch" and "trial scene" from "Much Ado About Nothing," which they will present in the Philharmonic auditorium of Los Angeles as a part of the annual Shakespearean festival of Southern California.

Harold Brewster, dramatic coach, expects the local students to make a fine showing at this event. They will be in competition with the best high school dramatic talent in this portion of California.

One hundred and fifty seats are being reserved in the auditorium for the members of the local student body. Last year, when a scene was presented from "King Henry the Eighth," 200 students attended from Glendale Union High school.

The cast for the scenes, which have been combined, includes Ed Stockbridge, George Jewett, George Janson, Allen Pollock, Ralph Van Hoorebeck, Loren Patrick and Caryl White.

Local Artist's Work Is Part of Exhibit

An added feature of the art exhibit in local business houses under the auspices of the Glendale Art association is a display of work by Ellen Cadwalader Welch of 538 West Lexington drive, in the Shuck Music Company on North Brand boulevard.

The artist has lived in Glendale during the past twelve years, coming here from Ohio. Her many friends will be interested in the exhibit of her work and will doubtless cast votes for her in the Art association contest, which closes tonight.

SERVICE STATION BUSINESS OPENS

Substantial Establishment At East Broadway and Cedar Street

"Service that Satisfies," is the slogan adopted by C. H. Messenger and F. R. Pierce, of the Broadway Auto Super-Service station, at East Broadway and Cedar street, formerly with a local service station.

Mr. Messenger will be remembered as the accessory man, and Mr. Pierce as the lubricating man at the station. With them in their new enterprise is associated F. A. Pratt of Los Angeles, a man experienced in all lines of the service station business.

These three proprietors bought their present location from C. A. Fisher and are improving it rapidly into a thoroughly up-to-date station. They have erected a substantial accessory room of concrete blocks, corrugated metal roof and large glass windows. A concrete block men's and women's rest station has also been erected, and two visible Keese Combination fuel pumps have been installed.

In addition, the station is to be an official Alemite headquarters, and will carry a complete line of tires, tubes, accessories and other equipment.

A special feature is a large air and water station, where air, water and distilled water are available twenty-four hours out of every day, this department never being closed.

The proprietors feel that when their old friends, together with their new friends, find out what a large, roomy station they have, and what satisfying service they give, business will be all they can desire.

PLANS FOR HOTEL AT BRAND AND CALIFORNIA

Project Progressing and Outlook Is Very Favorable to Have Ground Broken In Next Sixty Days, It Is Believed

PLANS for a $500,000 hotel at the northwest corner of Brand and California are now practically complete, announces Attorney Mattison B. Jones, and it is expected to break ground for the structure within sixty days. The site of the new hostelry, 154 feet on Brand by 150 feet deep to an alley, is the property of Dr. E. H. Parker, of 426 North Maryland avenue, one of the men interested in the undertaking.

The plans call for the erection of a four or five-story hotel, apartment and arcade, along the lines of the letter H—the north line the hotel, the south line the apartment house and the cross line the arcade.

These plans, it is felt, will safeguard the undertaking from an economic point of view, the combination being mutually supporting. In the event, for instance, of a dull hotel season, the apartment side of the structure will keep things going. And the arcade, with its numerous high-class shops, will be a constant money-earner.

Plan to Incorporate

No architect has yet been chosen, Mr. Jones states, as it is first planned to incorporate. This step will be taken within the next ten days, if the preliminary flow of finances continues. In this latter connection, a number of Glendale men are said to be interested in the project besides Mattison B. Jones and Dr. E. H. Parker, among them R. F. Kitterman and J. A. Endicott.

Mr. Jones states that the present favorable outlook for the Brand boulevard hotel is the result of two recent meetings held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, one April 3 and one April 9, at which meetings definite financial support was lent to the undertaking and a decision formulated to proceed at once.

"This hotel is in no way to conflict with the one planned for East Broadway and Glendale," says Mr. Jones, in commenting on the plans as announced above. "We want that hotel on Broadway, but we also want this hotel on Brand. One is as much a necessity as the other, and each is a totally different type of investment."

CALIFORNIA LEADS

California is the recognized queen of the international travel show just opened in the Grand Central Palace, New York City, according to word just received by the California Depevolment Association which is in charge of the Golden state's participation.

With more than a score of foreign nations represented as well as many states throughout the country, California's booth is easily the most popular section of the exhibit of the world's travel attractions. To storm-harassed Gotham the California display has brought a message of promise and opportunity, according to Miss Mariel Kimball Hyde who is officiating as "Miss California."

LIMIT LAND HOLDERS

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—Land owners possessing more than 5000 hectares (about 12,500 acres) must proceed immediately to divide up the surplus, according to the department of agricultural development. The circular says that no land owner can hold more than the 5000 hectares.

There's Real Difference Between 'Home' and 'House'

THERE is something possessive and permanent embodied in the word "home" that the word "house" does not convey.

Webster's dictionary defines a home as "one's fixed place of abode." Holmes says, "Where we love is home, home that our feet may leave but not our hearts." And everyone is familiar with the phrases, "There is no place like home" and "Home is where the heart is."

Where there is smoke there is fire. Where the great minds of the world agree on a thing, the truth must be in it.

Purely from the material point of view, one set of figures clinches the argument. Those figures are—$50 a month rent on a house will, at the end of ten years, net nothing more tangible than a $6000 stack of rent receipts, while $6000 will buy free and clear a home of the equivalent of a $50 a month rental value.

Renting a house, month after month and year after year, is just as sound an economic move as going to the river every thirty days and dropping $50 into it.

And then consider the finer, higher point of view in owning your own home, the aspect of sentiment. This nation of ours is built upon its homes, not upon its houses. The American home is at the very foundation of American democracy. It is the separate, sacred sanctuary of each family, where great dreams are dreamed and high hopes raised for the future—the next generation.

There, truly, is food for thought. But there is a third point of view to be considered, a combination of the material and the sentimental points of view—and that is, substantiality, permanency. The one thing that applies most generally to successful men, and marks them, is this established position they occupy in their communities, with their homes at the basis of it.

The first question a bank or a prospective employer or business partner wants to know is, "Are you substantial, are you a definite part of some community, somewhere? or are you a fly-by-night, here today and gone tomorrow?"

The best way to answer that question is to be able to look any man straight in the eyes and say, "I own my home."

Those four words are the concentrated essence of the formula for success, before which all gates open.

Big Factory Is Just Completed Near City Limits

ANOTHER industry just outside the doors of Glendale is rapidly expanding, with resultant prosperity to this city, as evidenced by announcement of the completion of a $100,000 factory building on the W. P. Fuller Company's property at Humboldt street and San Fernando road. This announcement was issued from the Los Angeles headquarters of this organization.

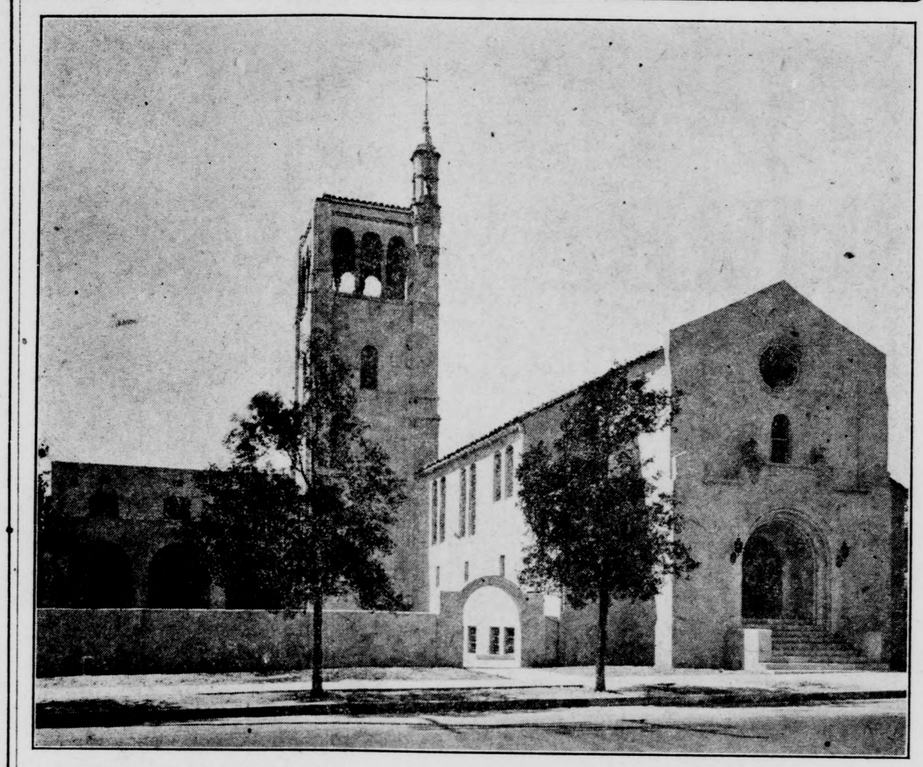
J. L. Root, who makes the announcement, states that this brings the total of improvements on the property beyond the million mark, and that plans call for the expenditure of an additional $500,000 on a large warehouse, which, in addition to being the storehouse for product of the local plant, will be the receiving station for shipments of the paints, varnishes and similar goods this company receives by the carload lot from its plants in other parts of the country.

The property consists of three city blocks lying between the San Fernando road and the Salt Lake tracks, with Humboldt street its northern boundary, and the closeness of this plant to Glendale makes the announcement of particular interest.

Local business men point out that the same advantages inducing the Fuller company to select that site for extensive development apply equally over on this side of the line, and that, in addition, Glendale offers other advantages not to be found elsewhere.

That manufacturers all over the country are well aware of these advantages, is becoming increasingly evident as new industries settle here.

New Organ At Congregational Church Is To Be Dedicated On Sunday Night, Also At Special Recital On April 20



CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PROVES MOST ATTRACTIVE BUILDING

This picture shows the new Congregational church, located at the corner of Central and Wilson. A fine pipe organ has been installed in the church and it will be dedicated at the services to be held on Sunday and again as a special organ recital to be given Friday night, April 20. Miss Lilla Litch has been appointed as organist. She will give a special program on Sunday night. The organ weighs more than eight tons.

THE consummation of plans for the beautiful new Congregational church at the northwest corner of Central and Wilson avenues, has been realized by the installation of the Hinners pipe organ, which is to be dedicated at the services on Sunday and again at a special organ recital Friday night, April 20.

At the services Sunday Miss Lilla Litch, recently appointed organist, will preside over the new instrument. She will give a special organ program at the evening service. On April 20 Dr. Ray Hastings, organist of the Temple Baptist church in Los Angeles, will give a recital program.

The new organ is a wonderful piece of workmanship, weighing over eight tons and including two manuals and over 1100 pipes arranged into sixteen independent sets. The construction of a pipe organ is a work of art involving thousands of details, and to insure the best results on the Congregational church instrument, additional time was granted the builders so that every detail could be carried out in an ideal way befitting a work of that kind.

Latest Ideas

While not a mammoth size, the organ was constructed with the idea of representing the modern church organ at its best. It is a product of the Hinners Organ company of Pekin, Illinois, and combines the latest ideas for the proper production of tone with every modern convenience for the organist. The action is electric, the console or key-desk being connected to the organ with an electric cable.

When the organist presses a key an electric contact is made through the wires in the cable to the respective magnet inside of the organ, which in turn causes the pneumatic valve beneath the pipe to open and admit the air to the pipe. The console is of the advanced modern type, with tablets or stop keys in place of draw stops. It has a total of forty stops, couplers and accessories combined. The appointments of the console with its electric connections are so convenient and easy to manipulate that the wonderful tonal resources of the organ are constantly within easy control of the organist.

Well Concealed

The main body of the organ is located in a loft above and adjoining the choir loft and is concealed by a beautifully hand carved oak organ screen with display pipes in rich gold. An interesting fact is that the console or key desk will be detached in the choir loft, thus permitting the organist to have full view of the choral conductor and choir.

In tonal resources the organ is remarkably complete and effective. The individuality and sweetness of tone in the different stops, the dignified power of the full organ and the perfect blending of tone are all special features of the voicing of the organ. Many of the solo stops will be notable.

The Vox Humana is a stop wonderfully imitative of the human voice. The Echo Salicional is delicate and ethereal. The Dulciana is a soft, distant tone, which almost melts away when the Swell is closed. The Oboe and Tuba

TAX COLLECTION DRIVES PLANNED

Delinquents to Be Forced to Settle for Failure to Make Payments

Four intensive drives for the collection of delinquent federal taxes and penalties imposed have been inaugurated by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell, under special instructions received from Washington.

Drive No. 1 is directed against delinquent income taxpayers and those who filed faulty returns and were assessed additional taxes which have not been paid.

Drive No. 2 is aimed at persons operating businesses that are subject to a special tax, who have engaged in such business without first having paid the special tax. The specific penalty is $1000 and in additional 25 per cent for failing to pay on time.

Heavy Penalties

Drive No. 3 is on delinquent sales tax offenders. The specific penalty is $1000 and penalties of 25 per cent and 5 per cent attached together with interest at 1 per cent per month.

Drive No. 4 is against bootleggers against whom tax and penalties ranging from $500 to $2500 each have been assessed.

In all these cases offers of compromise may be filed. These offers are submitted to the department at Washington for action. Collector Goodcell said today that he did not wish to make a record for assessing penalties. "I want to save the taxpayers in this district from penalties," he declared, "but they must co-operate with me if this policy is to prevail."

Pacific Coast Trade Conditions Are Good

Business conditions are excellent all along the Pacific Coast today. A year ago Los Angeles was the only "white spot" of any size in the country. With the start of the present month, all of California is in the white area, as are large parts of Oregon and Washington, including Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, observes Southern California Business, official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

It will be noted that, while there are some shaded areas still existing in the United States, all the territory of the Pacific Coast that was under the heading of poor business a year ago is now becoming "white" at a lively rate.

This state of improved conditions is becoming well known to the economists and business analysts who have made a careful study of affairs for many years.

There is no trade boom under way in the United States, but practically every trade index is so favorable that business sentiment is uniformly confident with respect to the prosperity that is to be enjoyed during the next few months, says a well known business analyst. He goes on to show that conditions in nearly every industry are healthy, and the reflection of this is found in the rapid movement of commodities, both raw materials and finished goods, into consumption.

TELL PLANS FOR REALTORS' PICNIC

Southern District to Rally at Riverside on Saturday, May 12

Realtors of the southern California district of the California Real Estate Association, which includes Santa Barbara, will hold their third annual picnic at Riverside Saturday, May 12, according to announcement by President W. E. Stephens of the picnic association. Last year the annual outing was at Long Beach, and the year before at Santa Ana.

"Our plans are to meet at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, May 12, at the Mission Inn, and register and go through this famous hostelry. An hour later we will motor to the top of Mount Rubidoux and get a view of the Riverside valley. Then we will drive to Fairmont park and have our basket dinner and our speaking. Our program of athletics, including a ball game, races, wrestling, and jumping, will be pulled off at the fair grounds. In the evening we will arrange to hold a picnic dance at the Elks' hall. How does this sound for a big day?"

President Frazier O. Reed of the state association will be the guest of honor of this picnic, and will make the principal address.

Realtors from Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Imperial, San Diego, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties will be the guests of Riverside county on that big day. I. S. Logan, secretary of the Riverside Realty Board, is secretary of the picnic association.

Will Put Big Liners on Panama Canal Run

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Shipping today manifested great interest in the announcement by the International Mercantile Marine company of its intention to re-establish the Panama Pacific line's San Francisco-New York passenger and freight service via the Panama canal.

The 22,000 ton ocean liners Finland and Kroonland are to go on this run in October, according to the announcement, and as soon as business justifies the line will add two more ships including the big oil burner Manchuria.

The line will establish a 17-day run between New York and San Francisco.

MUCH BUILDING

Check of the figures at the city hall prove that there is much more building of small homes this spring than last. Now is the time to build, say those who know.

BEAUTIFYING OF HOMES IS URGED

Spring's Advent Is Motive For Rejuvenation of Surroundings

How splendid it is that the spirit of rejuvenation creeps into the heart of every housewife as spring unfolds her carpet of green, and her mantle of leafage and blossom.

With the keen interest that is being manifest in the beautifying of the home no alert woman could have lived through the winter months without assimilating some splendid new ideas that she wishes to make manifest in her spring renovation.

At this season it just seems the natural thing to go over the house, and see what it needs to make its dress comfortable for the spring and summer.

The walls, floor coverings and draperies should be given special attention and freshened up and renewed whether they are found faded or shabby.

Study Each Room

A good plan is to go from room to room and study the salient points, developing each center of interest carefully from three angles; first, how can I make this room more useful; second, more comfortable; third, more beautiful.

For utility you may need endtables, lamps, possibly a piece of furniture or two; for comfort, an overstuffed chair, davenport, stool, day-bed, or chaise-lounge; then for beauty may be added bowls and baskets for flowers, pictures, pottery, and any number of things that lend inspiration and atmosphere to the room.

It is nice to take down the heavy velvet and damask draperies, and replace them with figured linen or some lighter weight textile, and cover the overstuffed furniture with linen or cretonne slip covers; then make the sun and breakfast room just radiate joy and happiness through colorful draperies, furniture and flowers.

Draperies Needed

Our memory seems to tell us that we need some draperies, a new rug or two, a couch swing, porch furniture, new dishes, a good reading lamp, and just any number of things that will be useful in our summer home.

This rejuvenating process is always a joy because it is pregnant with creative possibilities of transforming the coziness of the winter fireside to a cool and airy atmosphere for spring and summer.

GREAT SHOWING

Building permits for the year total over $3,300,000, which is considerably in excess of the entire 1920 program of $3,136,664, and over half of that of last year, which was $6,376,241.

NEWLY-WEDS SEEK HOME OF OWN, RECORDS SHOW

Leave Old Folks by Thousands and Set Up for Themselves; Building Of Houses Is Greater Than In Spring of 1922

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Demand for "love nests" is the greatest in the American history. Newly-weds by the thousands who have never had a home, are leaving the "old folks and setting up for themselves and as a result the residential building boom has reached record proportions.

An official estimate made for the International News Service today by Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the housing division of the department of commerce, fixed residential building for the first four months of 1923 at nearly $700,000,000.

Contracts let for all building for this period were estimated at $1,400,000,000.

Construction of residences is from 15 to 30 per cent heavier this year than in the spring of 1922, in spite of the increasing cost of materials and maintenance of wage scales in the building trade crafts.

"Happiness and content among the newlyweds is following the home making program," Dr. Gries declared.

Big House Shortage

"Young folk can't always live with the 'old folks' and stay young and happy. The unusually large number of marriages during the war, high cost of living and house scarcity sent thousands of newly married couples to live with their parents a few years ago. Now many married as long as two or three years are preparing for their first real home."

In spite of the tremendous construction program, Dr. Gries believes the house shortage in the United States is still over 700,000 against about 1,000,000 two years ago.

The large cities are waging a determined fight against the shortage residential building being heaviest in New York, with Chicago second, and Los Angeles third. Detached and semi-detached houses are increasing in popularity in the big cities.

Standardization of Plans

"The labor situation in the building trade is regarded as fairly good," Dr. Gries said. "Agreements have been signed between contractors and unions in most cities. The existing rate of wages was maintained or increase in pay were granted in most cases."

The housing division and the bureau of standards are co-operating with home builders and by standardization of plans and specifications and of materials going into the house, economies are being effected.

More than 200 house plans for residences of from three to six rooms costing $2000 to $8000 have been drafted by the architects' small house service bureau, which has received the endorsement of Secretary of Commerce Hoover. A great variety of designs is available, selected from all sections of the country.

Building costs this year are slightly more than 15 per cent higher than early in 1922, according to figures secured by Secretary Hoover.

STATE LICENSE REPORT

The total number of real estate licenses issued in California for the seventy days ended March 10, 1923, was 26,978 or nearly 400 per day. This compares with a total of 12,270 licenses issued for the corresponding period in 1920. The receipts of the real estate department for the similar period in 1920 were $77,355.90, and for 1923, $160,413.09.

U. S. POPULATION STEADILY GROWS

Total of More Than Hundred And Ten Millions by July, Is Estimate Made

WASHINGTON April 14.—The poplation of the United States will be 110,633,502 on July 1, according to an estimate today by the census bureau statisticians.

The country's population is increasing at the rate of 1,415,109 annually. This would give a total of 119,861,710, by the time the next census is taken in 1930. The 1920 census showed a population of 105,710,620.

The estimate includes the District of Columbia and the states of Vermont, Nevada and Mississippi. The district's growth during the war was abnormal, hence, not a good basis upon which to estimate, and the three states lost population between 1910 and 1920 hence no estimates were made for them.

Great Strides Taken By California's Population

CALIFORNIA will have 3,805,153 people on July 1, 1923, according to an estimate just published by the Census Bureau. In the last census, 1920, the Golden State was given 3,426,861. The estimated increase is 378,292, or over 100,000 per year.

The population of the United States, forecast for the same date, is set down at 110,663,502, as against 105,710,620, an increase of 4,952,882, or nearly 1,500,000 per year.

These figures indicate that each state in the Union, upon an average basis, is growing at the rate of less than 30,000 per year.

These figures also indicate that California is growing at a rate about three times greater than the average state in the Union.

The state with the largest population is New York, with 10,843,661; second, comes Pennsylvania, with 9,100,326. Then follow, in succession, Illinois, 6,790,524; Ohio, 6,117,122; Texas, 4,939,630; Massachusetts, 4,027,545; Michigan, 3,977,821.

California then steps in as the eighth state in population in the United States. This is the same relative position that California occupied three years ago, although the increase in Michigan's population since 1910 is only 175,189, while California forged ahead with 378,292.

The same continued rate of growth in this state will enable it to eclipse both Massachusetts and Michigan, possibly Texas, by the 1930 census.

NEED MORE ROOM IN CO. HOSPITAL

Issue of $7,000,000 Bonds To Provide More Care For Sick Planned

Endorsed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, prominent clubwomen and civic organizations, a $7,000,000 county bond issue will be submitted to the voters of Los Angeles county at a special election, May 1.

The issue is designed to finance additions and improvements at the county hospital, the county farm, the Olive View Sanatorium for tubercular patients and the construction of a new hall of justice and jail in Los Angeles.

Of the total sum, $5,000,000 is required to enlarge the plants and personnel of the hospital, farm and sanatorium. The remainder is for the construction of the hall of justice.

Conditions in the charitable institutions in the county are deplorable, according to County Supervisor H. W. Wright. While Los Angeles county, at an unparalleled rate, has grown from a population of 600,000 to approximately 1,270,000 during the past eight years, the county institutions have struggled along with the same buildings and equipment as in 1914.

Patients Increase

"At the county hospital," said Mr. Wright, "the daily patient population for the year ending June 30, 1921, was 1038; for the year ending June 30, 1922, the average was 1133, a daily increase of 94 patients.

"One of the serious results of this congestion is the necessity of restricting admissions to the acute cases. The total capacity of the hospital is 800 beds and at the present time 1200 patients are being cared for.

"It is hard to realize the terrible conditions at the hospital without actually seeing them. In the tuberculosis ward beds are but 20 inches apart, and a patient may be dying with only a screen to separate him from the other inmates of the ward. There are 65 patients to the ward, where there should be only thirty.

"In spite of this over-crowding, every day approximately 300 patients are turned away, because there is no room. Last year 45,000 people passed through the receiving room at the hospital but only 15,000 could be admitted as bed patients. The remainder, 30,000, had to be cared for through the outdoor-relief department, wherever possible.

"An out-patient department would be of inestimable benefit to the majority of these patients. However, at present funds for the establishment of such a department are lacking."

SHIPMENTS POUR THROUGH HARBOR

Los Angeles Comes Second of Nation's Ports In Volume of Trade

Los Angeles harbor came into her own with a smash last year. During the last three months of 1922 this harbor stood far ahead of any other in the matter of cargoes loaded for intercoastal trade. More than doubling the record of San Francisco and almost trebling the New York figure, according to the forthcoming issue of Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

This is of especial interest to all Southern California cities for the reason that almost every community in the Southland contributed a share of this large tonnage. The harbor means as much to the back country as it does to the city of Los Angeles, and this fact is coming to be more and more appreciated by the entire Southwest.

Even in the item of total tonnage in intercoastal shipping—including both cargoes loaded and cargoes discharged—Los Angeles harbor stood next to New York, the total for the eastern port being 664,303 tons, with San Francisco standing third with 331,363 tons.

Leads Pacific Coast

With her record as second to New York, Los Angeles leads the Pacific coast by loading 56 per cent of the total outbound cargoes of all leading ports, and receiving 40 per cent of the inbound cargoes. In the intercoastal trade the following are comparative figures, taken from the report of the shipping board received by the foreign trade department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; New York, cargoes loaded, 133,154 long tons; cargoes discharged, 511,149; total, 644,303 long tons. Los Angeles, cargoes loaded, 355,448 long tons; discharged, 162,754; total, 518,202 long tons. San Francisco, loaded, 175,020 long tons; discharged, 156,343; total, 331,363 long tons. Philadelphia comes fourth with a total of 226,951 long tons; Baltimore next with 124,919; Seattle, 114,791; Portland, Ore., 75,979 long tons.

To compute the complete business of the port of Los Angeles for the quarter, the figures covering only the intercoastal business, we add the coastwise tonnage, which totaled 2,401,464 tons; and the foreign shipping, which reached 251,963 tons, the grand total for the port reaching 3,171,629 tons for the three months. This is a marvelous record for a port whose harbor is distinctly man-made, and which has really functioned but about twelve years, shipping prior to that not of great consequence, the breakwater not having been finished until 1910.

Tree Planting Week State's Greatest Asset

This is the report of Tree Planting Week in California, March 4 to 10.

Reports from the press of that state, from Horticultural Societies, from Chambers of Commerce, Women's Clubs, County Superintendents of Schools, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations, County Agents and other promoters of Tree Planting Week activities, picture an enthusiasm over planting that resulted more than successfully.

Thousands of memorial trees were planted along roadways and in cemeteries. A great number of school grounds and church yards were planted with trees, shrubs and flowers. Roses were planted about libraries and other buildings, flower shows and flower festivals were promoted, many cities and towns carried through definite tree planting programs and a great variety of other planting accomplishments were put through.

In the majority of other states, Tree Planting Week is still ahead, but is rapidly nearing. That which California has so enthusiastically put over in the first Tree Planting Week of the Spring 1923, can be easily duplicated and surpassed in every other state of the Union.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

LONDON, April 14.—How to induce between 500,000 and 600,000 persons to emigrate from Great Britain yearly, in the opinion of Harold Cox, editor of the Edinburgh Review, has become a problem that this country must face seriously. The editor declares that the population here is increasing at the rate of 1000 daily and that some scheme is badly needed to dispose of the increase.

The kindness of impulse is far better than no kindness at all, but true, dependable kindness does not depend upon words.

CLOSES $315,000 DEAL FOR TRACT

Marvin Smith Handles Deal For Rich Property on Pico Boulevard

A realty sale totaling $315,000 has been made by Marvin Smith, manager of the Wing Orange Grove tract, it is announced.

In commenting on this deal, Mr. Smith states that it brings his sales for the last ninety days to the $600,000 mark.

The property involved in the $315,000 transfer consists of 139½ acres on Pico boulevard, Los Angeles, adjoining the Rancho Golf Club and just across the street from "Westwood," the big development of the Janss Investment Company. A. G. Smith of Glendale and Benjamin Sheldon of Hollywood are the buyers, and the Burkhart Investment Company of Los Angeles the sellers.

Start Development

The escrow on the property is closed and the buyers will start development at once. They plan to turn the acreage into a high class subdivision and expect to have it on the market within thirty days, with 700 lots for sale.

The tract has a frontage of 4000 feet on Pico boulevard, states Marvin Smith, and a car line runs through the property, making it ideal business and residence acreage.

Mr. Smith states that he will handle the selling of the tract, assisted by Maurice Healey, who has been with him on the Wing Orange Grove tract.

Wing Tract Going

Reporting on the Wing tract, Mr. Smith states that this tract is now practically sold out, 102 lots having been turned in about forty days, at a total consideration of $200,000.

When it is recalled that it was Marvin Smith himself who turned the Wing deal, at a consideration of $100,000, the total of his operations within the last ninety days is seen to be $600,000, as he states.

The tract on Pico boulevard has not been named yet, says Mr. Smith.

Income Tax Returns Indicate Prosperity

Figures compiled for Southern California Business, official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, show that the total income tax collections for the Southern California district for the first quarter of 1923 reached approximately $13,055,000 as against receipts of $10,802,507 for the same period of 1922.

Check of income tax returns indicates that approximately 225,000 separate returns of all kinds were filed, compared with 185,000 last year, an increase of 40,000. The total filing of individual returns is placed at 198,405.

Based on the returns already listed, 95,362 individual or personal returns were filed in the city of Los Angeles, of which 87,866 were for incomes under $5,000 and 11,496 over $5,000.

In Los Angeles county, outside the city, the total individual income filing was 44,367. There was 39,247 incomes under $5,000 and 5,120 over $5,000.

For the entire Southern California Internal Revenue district which is composed of 10 counties, 198,405 individual returns were filed. Of these 175,528 were incomes under $5,000, and 22,877 over $5,000.

Partnership, corporation and fiduciary returns, when added to the total of 198,405 individual returns, is expected to bring the number of returns of all classes up to 225,000.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that while the Los Angeles district gained $3,206,113 on total collections of $7,795,632, the Manhattan district of New York, according to a statement of Secretary Mellon, gained only $3,000,000 on a turnover of $46,000,000. Chicago ran even.

PROOF OF GROWTH

Installations of water and light meters show Glendale's growth. Altogether, there are now 7897 water meters and 9895 light meters in service. April 1, 1922, there were 6457 water meters and 7714 light meters. This means that 1440 water meters and 2181 light meters have been installed during the past year.

GAS STOVE, WATER HEATERS FEATURE

Week of April 16 to 21 Will Be Devoted to Display, It Is Announced

Gas stove and water heater week is April 16 to 21, announces John A. Dignan, campaign director, who calls attention to the increasingly evident fact that no modern home is complete, efficient and economic unless its heating and cooking equipment is up-to-date.

"All the skill, science and research of experts are being brought into play to see that these essentials shall be of the best," states Mr. Dignan, "and that each new home shall contribute as much as possible to the health and happiness of its occupants.

"What wonder then, that the kitchen is no longer treated as a scullery, a place to spend as little time in as possible. The kitchen is the heart of the home, its most vital spot. From a drab, uninteresting place, the kitchen has burst forth like a butterfly with soft, harmonious walls, fetching window hangings, and all the intriguing tools which lighten kitchen work.

Changes Made

"The modern kitchen has an array of labor savers which were not even dreamed of a generation ago. But even the old equipment has changed. The table has grown up into a cabinet, the sink spreads out white drainboards, like wings, and rises from its back-breaking height. It is the range, however, which shows the greatest change. Instead of a huge coal range, spilling ashes and soot over the room, the modern kitchen boasts a compact cabinet gas range of white enamel and gleaming nickel. Good-looking in appearance, substantial in build, it conforms to the modern demand for a fuel that is clean and quick.

"Matches have gone out of fashion in the kitchen, at least for lighting the top burners of the gas range. The oven still requires a few, but in place of the endless match-striking to light top burner, comes a handy little lighter. This lighter fastens on to the manifold which supplies gas to the burners, and a tiny pilot flame burns constantly. To light the burner, a slight pressure on the lighter button increases the flow of gas and shoots the lighter flame out to each burner. The burner lights, the button is released, the lighter flame decreases to its original size, all in an instant's time.

Many Features

"With this convenient lighter, there is no accumulation of burnt matches, no reaching in past hot kettles to light the back burners. It is not even necessary to move pans to relight burners that have been turned out.

"Another feature of the lighter which commends itself to thrifty housewives is the opportunity it gives for saving gas. The gas that is saved when a pan is drawn from the fire for a moment hardly compensates for the effort of reaching for a match, striking it, and applying it to a hot burner. With the lighter, however, so little effort is required that it soon becomes a habit to turn off the gas when it is not actually needed for cooking."

BOLAND TO SELL VALE VIEW LOTS

Tenth Street Property Will Be Placed on Market This Afternoon

This afternoon the twenty-two superb view lots on beautiful Tenth street, one block north of Kenneth road and three west of Grand View avenue, are placed on the market, so far underpriced, states J. M. Boland, owner and subdivider, that it will only be a matter of days and perhaps hours before they will be snapped up by canny buyers. The prices run from $1190 up.

The lots are level and gently sloping, and command magnificent vistas, and Mr. Boland says he has named the tract "Vale View" because of the marvelous panorama afforded the eye. The size of the lots is 50 by 164 feet.

"These lots are just three blocks from the Grand View school," he points out, "and will be served by the proposed bus line. The restrictions are adequate and the prices are revolutionary. Come up and look these lots over this afternoon or Sunday, when my salesmen will be on the tract to show you a real opportunity.

"Come up, make your comparisons, then select and buy—because you will not get such a chance again."

DELEGATIONS, DISPLAYS

Large delegations of California realtors to the national convention will leave Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland and San Francisco and they will arrange to converge at Ogden where they will have a mutual train. Some of the realty boards are planning to have exhibits at Cleveland and the Lodi Realty Board, whose president, John C. Bewley, attended the national conference in Jacksonville, plans to send a miniature vineyard. San Diego will have a display and Los Angeles also will again have a display and treat the east to the famed Sunkist oranges. The Oakland delegation will have its realtors' chorus, and there will be twenty-five realtors in the delegation.

LEGISLATION FOR REALTY DEALERS

Many Matters Come Up at Sacramento of Interest To All Brokers

By W. H. AKIN
Chairman Legislative Committee
California Real Estate Assn.

The Gates bill, No. 432, amending the California Real Estate License law, in several important particulars, passed the state senate, 33 to 4, and will come up before the assembly judiciary committee.

The bill, as indorsed by the 102 realty boards affiliated with the California Real Estate association, and passed by the senate, provides for the following:

First—Land certification by the state real estate department to protect non-residents and investors of small means against fraud or misrepresentatiton when purchasing certified lands. Certification is not compulsory.

Gets Real Power

Second—Regulation — answering the state-wide demand that the state real estate commissioner be given real power to deal with palpably fraudulent enterprises based on real estate, a new section is added providing for two years' imprisonment or $2000 fine upon conviction of knowingly authorizing, directing or aiding in the publication, advertising, distributing or circularizing or aiding in the publication, advertising, distribution or circularizing any false written statement concerning land. Prosecutions to be conducted by the district attorney only upon the written request or demand of the real estate commissioner.

Third—Qualification. Responsive to the demands of real estate brokers and salesmen throughout California, an amendment is added granting to the real estate commissioner to require proof of the applicant for a real estate broker's license that applicant have, in addition to proof of honesty, truthfulness and good reputation, a "fair knowledge of the English language, including reading, writing, spelling and elementary arithmetic, and a fair understanding of the rudimentary principles of real estate conveyancing and general purposes and general legal effect of deeds, mortgages, land contracts of sale, and leases, a general and fair understanding of the obligations between principal and agent as well as of the provisions of the California Real Estate License law."

Used by Other States

The California law under which 37,394 brokers and salesmen were licensed last year, is the model upon which fourteen other states and two British provinces have drafted their realty legislation.

Fourth—Surety bond. A provision in the Gates bill would make it necessary for each broker to file a surety bond of $2,000. Suit may be commenced by the commissioner or any injured party against the offending broker bond thereunder and his sureties.

Fifth—Bond on Appeal. This section is to prevent a licensee under the real estate act from continuing in business after the revocation of his license by the commissioner, unless he shall file a bond with court of appeal.

Sixth—Sign Display. This section provides for displaying signs and gives the real estate commissioner definite power to make such regulations.

About Commissions

In addition to the Gates bill, Senator Jones of San Jose, has introduced senate bill No. 629, providing for division of commissions for handling estate properties. This proposed act will give an executor or administrator the power to employ a broker to handle estate property and to execute a valid contract to pay a commission. Present method of sale or confirmation of highest bid is not changed, but if a broker, holding a commission contract procures a presentable bid and another broker secures a better bid subsequently confirmed by the court, the commission shall be paid one-half to the broker holding the contract and half to the broker representing the successful bid. It is thought passage of this bill will result in better service generally being rendered to estates and better prices being obtained for some properties.

VISIT REALTY BOARDS

Concluding their first leg of their northern trip to realty boards with a northern Sacramento valley conference at Chico, the state officers of the California Real Estate association are visiting the boards at Willows, Colusa, Woodland, Napa, Santa Rosa, Petaluma, San Rafael, Burlingame, San Mateo, Palo Alto, and San Jose. At all of these meetings the realty dealers are out in full force. Real estate legislative matters are presented by the state officers, but such important business matters as standard forms, multiple exclusive listing, real estate educational courses, taxation inquiry, and generally standardizing of the business are under discussion. Great interest is shown by the realty dealers of the state in the professionalizing of the business, and large numbers are applying for admission to the state association, whose annual membership day is set for Tuesday; May 15. One hundred boards are participating in the drive.

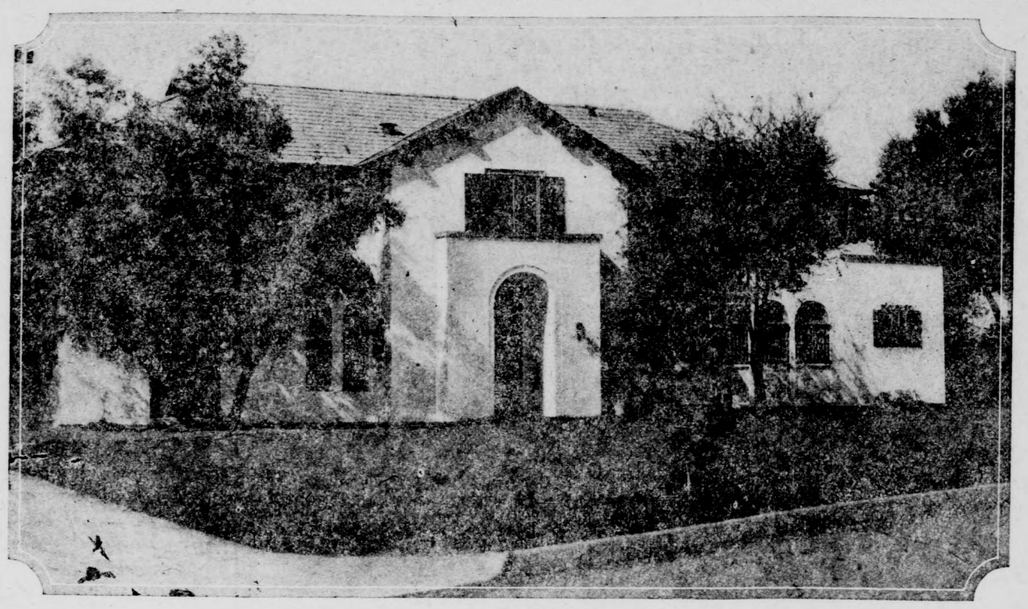
ANOTHER HANDSOME HOME IS JUST COMPLETED AT FLINTRIDGE

Ralph Reynolds Has Attractive Residence; Location Appeals To Large Number Of People



ATTRACTIVE RESIDENCE IS COMPLETED AT FLINTRIDGE

This picture shows the fine home just erected for Ralph Reynolds at Flintridge. Some of the finest homes in the southland are to be found in Flintridge, which is declared by many people to be the suburb in which Glendale takes the most pride. Many of the most distinguished people in the southland reside in Flintridge.

Glendale is particularly fortunate in the number and character of its beautiful suburban properties, lying close to the heart of the city. Every city tends to develop one suburban community that represents the best of the city's life. In the judgment of many Glendale people, Flintridge is the suburb in which Glendale takes most pride.

Flintridge is easily accessible, yet remote from the tides of traffic. Flintridge attained a national reputation for its picturesque setting and the high character of the distinguished community established there. Flintridge abundantly justifies its fame as "the smart suburban community of Glendale."

It is difficult to realize when driving through this enchanting country estate, that Los Angeles is actually only thirty minutes away and Glendale scarcely more than fifteen minutes distant.

But Flintridge is and always will be a place apart. Nature has thrown up barriers to protect it against deteriorating influences and encroachments. It is happily situated just outside the city where people can find both the luxury of seclusion and the tonic of play and social contact.

The list of residents in the Flintridge area includes many of the most distinguished names in Southern California. It makes its strongest appeal to those who are most discriminating in the matter of home environment and who are particularly exacting in choosing the community with which their names are to be identified.

Notwithstanding the desirability of Flintridge homes, prices are surprisingly low. Attractive homesites are available for as little as $850, while completed homes in a variety of styles and sizes may be purchased at prices ranging from $7250 upward.

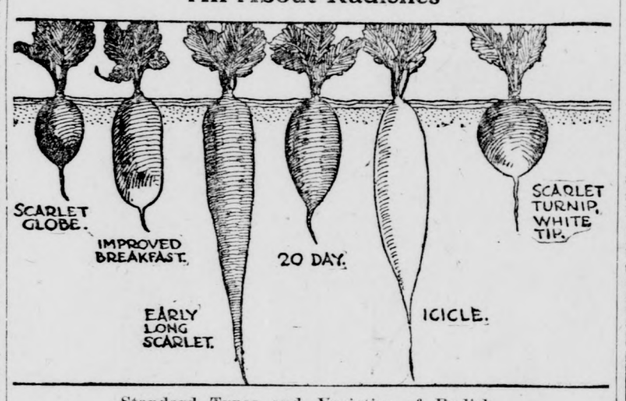
The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

All About Radishes



Standard Types and Varieties of Radish

The radish has been cultivated in gardens since remote times. The Greeks served it on gold plates in sacrifices to Apollo. Pliny tells of radishes in Rome that weighed forty pounds. It was introduced in England in 1500. Queen Elizabeth had the choice of four varieties, each of which no doubt some one considered to be the best. The varieties we now enjoy are the lineal descendants of those historic sorts, and each has its points of peculiar merit, otherwise is would be quickly abandoned.

Modern improvement in the radish has been along the line of shortening the season to maturity, and quick growth has been accompanied by a shortening of the root, producing the olive and globe-shaped types. Ancient radishes were larger, longer, stronger and slower of growth. The fastest growing variety now known is an olive-shaped white, called earliest white olive, which matures in fifteen to eighteen days after sowing. A red olive variety, generally known as the twenty-day radish, is next, maturing in twenty days. These very rapid growing varieties have the defect of most fast growing vegetables, in that they require to be harvested immediately upon maturing. In a day or two more and they turn pithy and are useless. To get them up properly they must have ideal conditions, which for radishes include a rich, loose soil, plenty of water and cool weather. They cannot be grown in our summers.

Market gardeners usually avoid these sprinters of the radish tribe, and sow much second earlies as early scarlet globe, which matures in twenty-five days, and scarlet turnip white tip, or sparkler, which takes twenty-eight days to mature. Both of these remain edible longer before turning pithy.

The older type of long radishes with a tapering root, matures in from thirty to forty-five days, and remains a corresponding time without becoming pithy, so these are relied upon for producing a succession of crops in the garden. The most popular long variety for home garden use is Icicle, maturing in thirty days, sometimes reaching five and one-half inches in length. All radishes, it must be understood, may be eaten before they mature, and in the home garden are to be preferred so.

There are globe-shaped radishes of longer season, growing much larger than the early types, such as Crimson Giant, maturing in thirty-two days, and White Box, maturing in thirty-five days, and growing to two and one-half inches in diameter. White Strasbourg is a long white summer variety growing larger and maturing in forty days, and Chartier is a red still later and larger, for hot weather growing.

Of the huge radishes known to Pliny and Queen Elizabeth we have survivors which are grown for fall and winter use and very delicious they are, and valuable additions to winter salads.

Lettuce for Every Season

A Different Salad Dressing

One-half teaspoonful of salt, scant; dash of cayenne pepper, one tablespoonful of catsup; four tablespoonfuls of oil, adding gradually; one clove of garlic mashed upon the dish and fragments removed; one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar. Mix all ingredients except the oil, then stir this in a little at a time briskly until all is incorporated, or mix all at once and blend with an egg beater.

Lettuce for Every Season

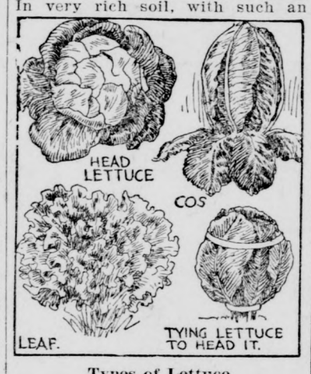
Lettuce has come to be a staple vegetable on the city table. It appears in many families almost as often as potatoes and fills a dietary need quite as important. It supplies in cheap and most palatable form the vitamines A, B and C, which have been discovered to play so great a part in health maintenance.

Next to Swiss chard, lettuce is the most profitable vegetable for the home gardener. It will be found even more useful than chard, for it will be welcomed on the table every day, which can hardly be said of chard. Every well-planned home garden should provide for a succession of lettuce crops which will provide the finest quality for the longest season; and this takes careful planning.

Lettuce is a cool-season crop. When hot summer comes it runs to seed so quickly that from the last of July to the first of September it is possible only in shaded beds, carefully tended, which comparatively few will bother with. But during the rest of the garden year some variety of lettuce is possible.

There are four types of lettuce generally grown in this country—leaf, butter-head, crisp-head and cos. All lettuces tend to make heads and in California all do. In some other sections it takes coaxing to make any of them head. It requires to be grown fast without check, to produce the tender sweet leaves that we enjoy. The soil, then, must be light, quickly warmed as rich as possible, especially in nitrogen, and there should be a plentiful supply of water. The richest spot in your garden should be chosen for lettuce and then it should be manured, if possible, and additional feeding with nitrate of soda is advisable.

The first variety to sow is head lettuce, which should always be started indoors. The plants may be set outdoors as soon as the garden soil can be prepared. Keep a reserve in case the first planting should be killed by a hard freeze. In very rich soil, with such an early start, head lettuce of these varieties should be ready in seventy days from date of sowing.



Types of Lettuce

When the head lettuce is set out sow seed of a leaf variety. This may be sown thickly and thinned out to one plant every two inches. Alternate plants may then be harvested half grown, until a spacing of six inches has been reached. All lettuce varieties need at least six inches in the row to reach full growth and some need more.

Seed of a crisp heading type, such as New York, the largest of lettuce varieties, or Mignonette, one of the smallest and surest to head, may be sown at the same time as the leaf varieties and the seedlings transplanted when they make true leaves. New York must have at least a foot between plants in the row. It will mature slowly, stand hot weather well and furnish the last crop of the first season.

Cos lettuce, or romaine, which many esteem as the finest of lettuces, may be started indoors or outdoors to fit into the succession where one pleases. It matures in about eighty days. For the ball season, omit the crisp heads and start the desired varieties in a shaded seed bed in July to be transplanted when the cool weather comes in late August.

If you set out your melons and cucumbers a little early, have a pile of hay or straw handy. This can be tossed over them handily with a fork if the evening seems chilly.

They say our present coal supply will last four thousand years, and it appears likely that the public's patience will, also.

CALIF. PAYMENTS SHOWN IN AUDIT

Federal Revenues Collected In This District Are Staggering Sum

That the southern California internal revenue district has become one of the greatest producers of federal revenue in the United States is shown by an audit and survey of tax receipts for the period extending from March 1, 1919, to November 30, 1922, which was completed yesterday by Collector Rex Goodcell and forwarded to Washington.

The report shows that during the three years and nine months covered by the survey the staggering sum of $192,941,824.19 was collected here.

Of this amount $139,629,550.61 was income tax, $34,696,779.63 sales tax, $4,931,360.80 capital stock tax, estate tax $4,268,440.56, stamps $7,322,045.06, tobacco tax $177,363.21, prohibition and narcatic tax $1,807,803.75, and miscellaneous taxes $63,525.11.

The survey shows that rebates and abatements of tax amounting to $4,851,268.86 were allowed southern California taxpayers. Of these abatements $3,658,957.52 were for income taxes.

An outstanding feature of Collector Goodcell's report is the fact that since the new revenue bill, enacted by the present administration, went into effect, the federal taxes of southern California have been reduced $18,750,000. Had the new revenue bill taken in the entire period covered by Collector Goodcell's survey, the tax reduction would have been $55,000,000, or, in other words, the total collections would have been reduced from $192,941,824.19 to $137,000,000. The entire operating expenses of the Los Angeles district are less than one-half of one per cent of the amount collected.

Methods of Planting Trees Told by Expert

Planting is now beginning. Is yours begun?

NOW is the time to begin planting—not next week, not ten days from now, but immediately.

1.—Do not allow roots to be exposed to the sun, drying winds, or frosts.

3.—Have the holes large enough to admit all the roots without cramping.

4.—Plant in fne loam, enriched with thoroughly decomposed manure.

9.—If the season lacks the usual rainfall, water thoroughly twice a week.

BILL REGULATES REALTY DEALERS

Gates Measure, Indorsed by California Association, Now in Committee

SACRAMENTO, April 14. — Stringent regulations and rules designed to eliminate the possibility of fraud or misrepresentation in real estate transactions in California are proposed in a bill introduced in the State Senate by Senator Egbert J. Gates of South Pasadena, and in a half-dozen other measures waiting action either in the Senate or Assembly.

The Gates bill, which has passed the Senate and is now before the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly, has the indorsement of the California Real Estate association comprising more than 100 realty boards. Adoption of this measure by the Legislature and approval by the Governor will place wide discretionary powers in the hands of the State Real Estate Commissioner.

The bill relates to the regulation of real estate operations, the qualification and certification of real estate operators, sign display, bond on appeal, surety bond, directory printing and colonization projects.

Develop New Areas

According to Senator Gates, adoption of the proposed changes in the real estate statute "will not only regulate the business so far as the broker is concerned, but will serve as an active stimulant in bringing in colonists and developing our immense land areas.

"Important safeguards," he said, "are set up against fraudulent handling of all real estate to protect the public. Legitimate real estate brokers are aided and encouraged."

Supporters of the Gates bill in the Assembly are confident that the measure will be reported out favorably by the Judiciary Committee and that the measure will pass despite opposition which seems to have developed since the bill received favorable action in the Senate.

The State Real Estate commissioner, under the Gates bill, may prosecute persons for "knowingly authorizing, directing or aiding in the publication, advertising, distribution or circulaton of any false statement concerning real estate," and persons convicted under this provision will be subject to a fine of $2000 or imprisonment for two years.

Tests Provided

The commissioner is empowered to impose certain "integrity" and "intelligence" tests. He may require any person desiring to engage in the real estate business to give satisfactory evidence of integrity, also a reasonable knowledge of reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic, the legal purpose in application of instruments, such as deeds, mortgages and leases, the relationship between principal and broker, and a fair knowledge of the real estate statutes.

Certification provided for in the Gates bill relates to colonization lands, and the commissioner is empowered to investigate all colonization enterprises and issue a certificate setting forth his findings concerning the enterprise particularly as relates to irrigability, access to water, mortgage or bond indebtedness and character of the soil.

Must Show Signs

The provision relating to "sign display" requires that every broker licensed under the real estate department shall display a sign, and gives the Real Estate Commissioner definite power to make regulations in the premises. The second relating to "bond appeal," provides that after the Real Estate Commissioner has revoked a broker's license for cause, the order of the commission shall remain effective during an appeal to the Superior Court, unless the appellant files a bond in an amount to be fixed by the court, conditioned further upon "the proper and honorable conduct of his business during the pendence of the appeal."

Provision is made for a surety bond of $2000 to be filed by each licensed broker in the state. It is asserted that the real estate men of California "earnestly urge the enactment of this amendment, believing that it will be most effective in discouraging petty frauds and dishonesties; and provide a definite modicum of responsibility on the part of all real estate brokers, thus tending to greatly raise the standard of the entire real estate calling."

Many Millions Saved In New Jap Budget

TOKIO, April 14.—A general reduction of national expenditures totaling approximately 65,500,000 American dollars, affecting every department of the Japanese Government save the educational, brings the budget which Premier Admiral Baron Kato sent to the Diet to $675,000,000. This reduction in national expenses for next year is not as great as many expected, following the premier's announcement that he would pursue a policy of financial retrenchment; yet it is the greatest reduction ever made in Japan's expenditures except through the termination of warfare and the tlimination of heavy fighting costs.

Of the saving $35,500,000 was eliminated from this year's military expenditures, the majority of that figure being accounted for by the naval reduction effected at the Washington Conference. The other reductions come through administration readjustments and postponement of national enterprises. The Department of Education is the only department to receive autohrization for a larger appropriation than that of this year.

The Kato administration will ask the Diet for approximately $15,000,000 more than the present year, which raises the educational budget of Japan to the highest figure it has ever reached —$43,399,404. In that fact the elements of the country who have been opposing militarists for years in an effort to secure more school money find cause for gratification. Plainly it is another evidence that Kato's "bureaucratic" Ministry is far more progressive than the recent party Cabinets. If this appropriation is pushed through the Diet—and there is every reason to believe that it will be—it will signalize fulfillment, to some extent at least, of one of the desires that the Naval Minister had when he became Prime Minister. Shortly after taking office Premier Kato, talking to your correspondent, spoke of the great need for national retrenchment, adding that he hoped to reduce all expenses of the Government as much as possible at once, with the exception of the school fund, and that he hoped the Cabinet would be able to make a substantial increase in the educational appropriation.

PACKING HOUSES TO RAISE WAGES

Big Four Announce Advance Of $6,750,000 Yearly To Employes

CHICAGO, April 14.—Close on the heels of an announcement of an advance in wages of steel workers, it was announced here today that, effective Monday, the four largest meat packers will raise the pay of 81,500 employes.

The raise, according to figures furnished by the packers, will amount to $6,750,000 yearly, divided as follows:

Armour-Morris combine, $2,500,000 or 10 per cent; Swift & Company, 25,000 men raised, total not given out, 10 per cent; Wilson & Company, $1,500,000, increase of 3 to 5 cents an hour; Cudahy Packing Company, increase of 3, 4 and 5 cents an hour, total not given out.

Fifty-four hours will be recognized as a week, with overtime at time and a half and holiday and Sunday work at double time. The guarantee of 40 hours a week continues in effect.

The increases were announced following conferences between committees representing employes in each plant and the general managements.

Matinee Crook Tells How He Makes Hauls

NEW YORK, April 14. — Mr. Thomas F. Belford, "matinee burglar," flicked a speck of dust from an immaculate sleeve and politely stifled a yawn. The prospect of explaining how he had cleaned up $200,000 by casual visits to the homes of choice prospects was boring.

But the youthful specialist is a gentleman and a philosopher.

"One does not need to go to a polite school of burglary to be able to jimmy a lock," he said between contented puffs of a cigarette. "The whole procedure is very simple."

Here he meditated upon the trick of fate that landed him in an iron cell instead of in his customary Broadway restaurant. It was all due to the fact that he poached on the preserves of his fellow craftsmen, he explained. When he had confined his activities to sociable afternoon calls he had managed to earn a profitable livelihood, but when for the first time he tired of union hours and tried the night shift he met with disaster. He was caught.

"I never associated with burglars," Belford explained disdainfully. "They are crude, and I dislike things crudely done. I never carried any of that formidable array of tools that the common burglar carries. It is unnecessary. All one needs is a good 'front' and a jimmy—and I can jimmy almost any kind of lock," he added with pardonable pride.

"The procedure is simple.' I would go up to a fashionable apartment house and ring the bell. If someone answered I inquired for a person, apologized for the mistake and left. If no one answered I simply jimmied the lock and entered.

LOOK FOR RAPID SALES AT TRACT

Suburban Realty Co. Offers Forty-one Lots North Of Town Today

Today at 2 p. m., one of the keenest lot sales will take place that Glendale has experienced in many years. Deviating from the usual custom of subdividers in marketing homesites on easy terms with a cash payment of at least 25 per cent of the total price, Suburban Heights goes on the market today with large 50x164 lots, selling as low as $75 cash payments, and none higher than $100 even for the most valuable boulevard lots.

According to Alfred Johnson of the Suburban Realty Company, "There are 42 choice homesites, ranging in price from $1000 to $2,000, any of which may be purchased on terms that bring them within the easy reach of all and a monthly payment that is merely "chicken feed" in these days of high salaries and good times."

"Suburban Heights is directly opposite the famous Brand Castle on Tenth Street. It is only a few minutes' drive from the heart of the downtown district, and is today considered our most desirable residential district," said Mr. Johnson. "Newcomers who are arriving in our midst every day are struck with the wonderful scenic views obtained from Suburban Heights and hundreds have already located in our vicinity. The profit-making possibilities for today's buyers cannot be over estimated. It is a similar case to when a merchant has a dozen hats and two dozen buyers. The early birds get the goods and the late-comers must pay the profits."

"The terms upon which Suburban Heights homesites are being offered today can never be repeated in Glendale. It is only through fortunate financial arrangements that we have been able to establish a long credit for our customers, and this, together with the fact that our selling expenses will be exceptionally small through this rapid selling campaign, has enabled us to slash prices and terms.

"Thousands of people from the east, the middle west and Canada are on their way to Southern California today, and of these a good percentage are coming to Glendale. All these newcomers will need locations for homes and the man who owns a homesite here today and who bought at a sufficiently low price to allow him to resell at a fair figure will reap a rich reward during the next few months."

"We are offering 42 choice lots today at prices which will allow buyers a substantial profit. Every one of these 42 lots will be open for a buyer at 2 p. m. today, sharp. The early buyers will be able to get on the ground and make their selection of any lot or lots. There will be no holding back of lots for friends, no reservations, no phone sales. All lots will be sold in rotation as buyers arrive at our tract offices at the corner of Western Avenue and Tenth Street. It is unnecessary to add that early arrivals will secure the very cream of this limited offering. There will positively be no sales made before two o'clock."

PROSPERITY FOR LABOR FORECAST

Survey Reveals Favorable Prospect in Building Industry

In a survey of the general labor situation of the building industry throughout the United States, S. W. Straus & Co., say:

"Indications at the present time are that general labor conditions in the construction industry are conducive to a continuation of building activities on a large scale.

"Wage adjustments have reached a hopeful stage and in the most important centers are proceeding with success.

Few Wage Changes

"Neither union labor nor the employer appear to show any disposition to bring about radical changes in existing wage scales.

"In some cities employers have agreed to slight advances.

"This is resulting in the gradual elimination of the bonus scales, except in some of the larger cities and isolated localities where there is an insufficiency of skilled mechanics to take care of the work now in hand and in prospect.

"While demand for labor during the last month has not been acute, heavy winter construction work is keeping building labor from its usual seasonal layoff, and there are but a negligible number of men idle because of inability to get employment."

LAST HALF OF BEAUTIFUL BELLEHURST PARK IS NOW AVAILABLE

Walter H. Leimert Company Announces That People Of Glendale May Take First Choice

VIEW OF BEAUTIFUL BELLEHURST PARK, IN CENTER OF GLENDALE

The new unit of this remarkable subdivision is now open. Following its announced policy, the Walter H. Leimert Company states that the people of Glendale may have first choice in this property. The engineers are now preparing it for sale. The first tract is entirely sold, it is stated.

The last half of beautiful Bellehurst Park is available in part today to Glendale people only according to the big announcement just made by the Walter H. Leimert Company. This offer is in line with the previous policy of the Leimert Co., in making it possible for Glendale people to take first choice of new Glendale subdivisions under their control.

The new unit of Bellehurst Park is in many ways the most desirable tract ever opened in Glendale. Lying high above the city it overlooks a marvelous panorama of valley and mountains and yet it is within seven blocks of the business center of Glendale. Only two blocks away the Pacific electric trains furnish frequent service to and from downtown Glendale and Los Angeles.

Will Be Unique

This combination of accessibility, great natural beauty and high restricted residential development bids fair to make the new section of Bellehurst Park unique.

The present announcement of this advance sale is really premature as some of the new unit is still unstaked although engineers have been working night and day to prepare it for sale before the first unit sold out. In spite of all their efforts however the Leimert Co., finds itself faced with the unique situation of having one tract entirely cleaned out and the second half only partly ready.

However, a large majority of the new tract is available for reservation today and tomorrow to Glendale people only. The early arrivals at the tract will be able to get their choice locations reserved without difficulty, and will have an early opportunity to examine the entire tract before the swarm of outside buyers appear. In a few days the big public announcement of the opening of the last half of Bellehurst Park will be made through all the Los Angeles papers in the same way that the first half was announced four weeks ago. This is expected to bring an even greater flood of outside buyers than the previous announcement of the first unit, which resulted in a quarter of a million in sales in the first four days.

The present subdivision is covered with beautiful trees of many varieties. The old ranch house in particular is surrounded by a group of most magnificent shade trees, approached by long avenues of fifty year old olives that meet over the roads.

Beautiful Effects

Bearing groves of oranges, lemons, and grapefruit cover the gently sloping acres at the foot of the hills, while rolling knolls covered with yucca, and eucalyptus offer chances for magnificent landscape gardening effects with terraces, contour drives, and vistas of distant mountains.

Improvements are far advanced on the first unit which is now sold out. The same firm, Bates & Borland Inc., have the contract for the remaining unit which insures the high quality of the street work in the final half.

Representatives of the Walter H. Leimert company will be on the property every day from now on, rain or shine, with maps and prices on the new unit showing all available lots as fast as they are platted. Advance reservations can be made either at the tract office on Dryden and Jackson streets or at the downtown Glendale office at 246 South Brand boulevard.

CEMENT SHORTAGE

Producers of cement are advising their customers to plan purchases for several months ahead, because of the critical transportation condition. It is asserted that the producing companies are already thirty days behind in their deliveries, and are anticipating much greater delays as the cement demand increases and the supply of available cars decreases in the next few months.

The invitation is general to realty boards of the State. Multiple listing will be one of the themes, with H. E. Nightingale of the Southwest Realty Board leading in the discussion.

Other multiple boards, including San Diego, Huntington Park, Glendale, San Bernardino, Tulare and Monterey will be represented. Realty board problems will be taken up, and it is the plan of the Long Beach Board of Realtors to entertain the visiting realtors royally.

Harding and Cabinet Discuss Sugar Prices

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Harding and his cabinet discussed the sugar situation yesterday, hearing from Acting Attorney-General Seymour a report on steps already taken by the department of justice to determine what persons or organizations are responsible for recent increases in sugar prices.

It was announced at the White House after the meeting that the administration had not yet decided upon the course it would take in prosecuting the sugar speculators. The statement was made at the same time that President Harding was convinced that the tariff had nothing to do with increased sugar prices.

BUDGET BATTLE

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—The budget fight will be transferred to the floor of the legislature Monday. The budget measure will come before the assembly at Monday's session and on Monday evening it will be reported out of the senate finance committee.

CARE FOR HOMES BRINGS PROFITS

Value Increases as Over Maintains Property in Good Order

This is a tale from the East with a moral for real estate investors.

In a certain section stand two one family residences. They are about 300 feet apart, were erected by the same builder several years ago, are of the same design and construction, and originally sold for $15,000 each.

One of the houses was occupied by an owner who neglected his investment. The house, both inside and out, is very much the worse for wear, despite its comparative newness. Last January the owner sold this property for $12,500, taking a loss of $2500.

The second house was occupied by an owner who took an interest in his property from the start. He made certain improvements in the house, used paint liberally, placed a private hedge around his plot, planted some evergreens and otherwise added to the appearance and value of his property.

Recently this owner also sold his residence—but the selling price was $17,500.

Journeys Many Miles To Reach Four Blocks

PASADENA, April 14.—Ending its weary travels about 18,447 miles back and forth from Pasadena to Germany, a letter bearing 300 marks postage, and addressed to the "chief of police, Pasadena, Cal., U. S. A.," was delivered to the addressee yesterday. Stamped on the envelope were the words: "Returned for better address."

When Chief of Police Kelly of Pasadena, received the letter, the only addition to the address was "city hall."

The Pasadena city hall is only four blocks from the postoffice. Therefore the letter had to re-travel a distance of about 12,298 miles to Berlin and back in seventy-eight days to get four blocks, according to the chief, who has a statistical turn of mind.

JURY DISMISSED

CHICAGO, April 14.—The jury trying Mrs. Nellie Koulik, mother of twelve children, for the murder by poison of a former husband, was dismissed when it failed after twenty-two hours' deliberation to agree. The jurors were ten to two for acquittal.

ANOTHER MILLION?

April bids fair to be another million dollar building month, with the total already nearing the half way mark and several big deals ready to pop.

ICE NEEDED FOR FRUIT SHIPMENTS

State's Perishable Crops Saved by Icing on Trip To Markets

Probably the average person does not realize what an important factor the ice industry is in California prosperity. Everyone knows that the growing and shipping of deciduous fruits is one of the big industries of the state, that it brings into California and puts into circulation here, hundreds of thousands of dollars, and directly or indirectly it provides work for thousands of people. Yet how many people appreciate the fact that the shipping of perishable fruits to eastern markets depends almost entirely upon ice? Without its aid, the fruit industry would be principally confined to canning and drying.

Nor is the importance of the ice industry confined to California alone. Today it occupies the ninth place in the list of commercial enterprises of the United States. This rapid growth is most interesting, in that it shows the progress of American industries in recent years; for the manufacture of ice was unknown until the closing year of the Civil War.

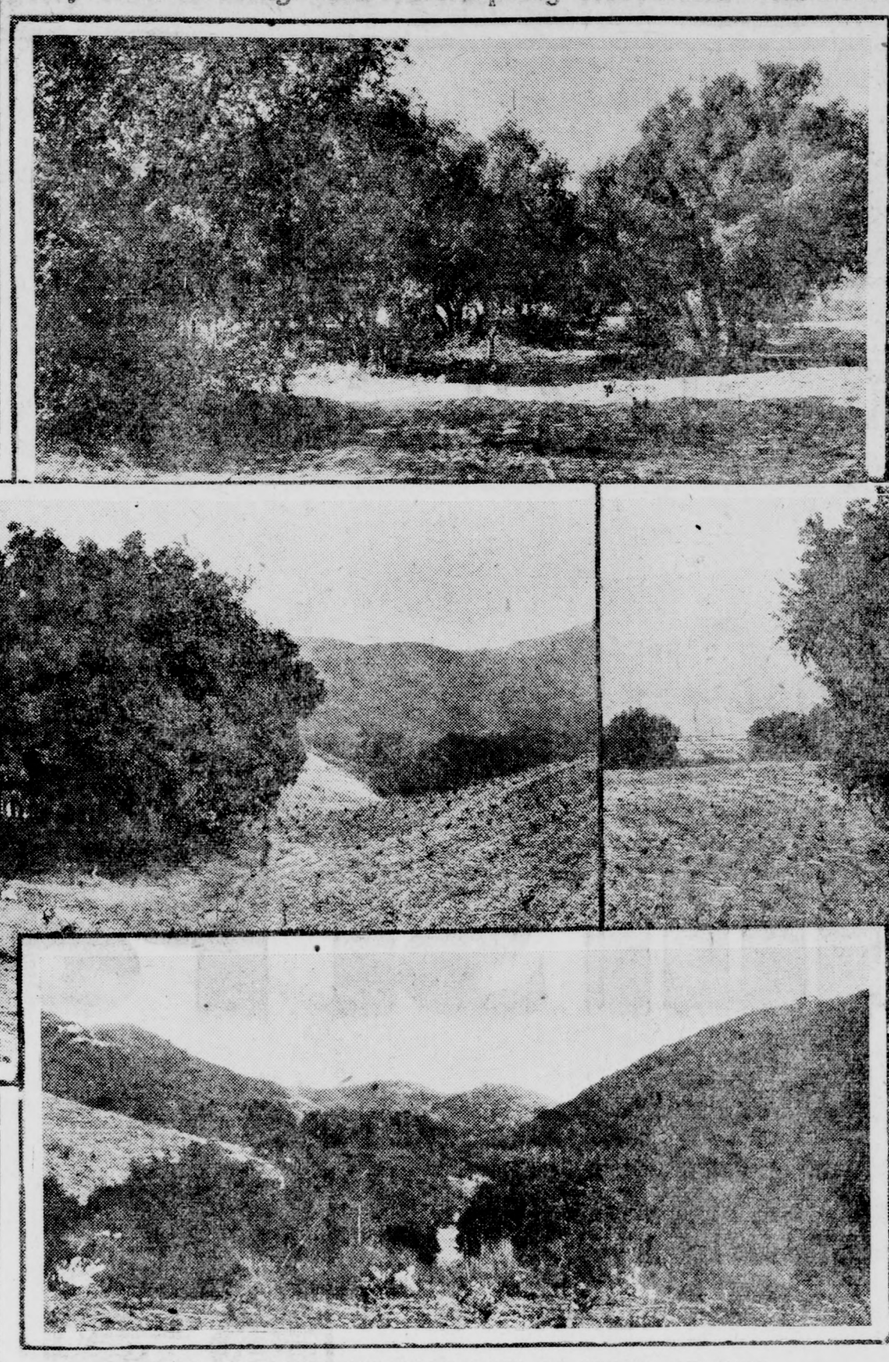
From five factories in 1870, the number has increased to 2867 in 1920. That the manufacture of ice has filled a long-felt need is recognized by the fact that the total capital invested in the ice factories of the United States has increased from $1,000,000 in 1880 to $270,000,000 in 1919, the year covered by the latest census report. Figures by the U. S. Department of Labor show 160,000 persons as regularly employed with 4800 dealers handling it as a commodity.

PREDICTS BIG YEAR

A $10,000,000 building year is predicted by H. C. Vandewater, after a close study of recent figures. And there are those who go him one better, holding out for the $12,000,000 mark, their predictions based on the belief that April, May and June are going to establish extraordinary records.

SPARR HEIGHTS RETAINS ITS NATURAL BEAUTY

Every Care Is Being Used To Keep Big Tract Filled With Beauty



HERE ARE SOME 'BEAUTY VIEWS' AT SPARR HEIGHTS

The management of Sparr Heights is determined to retain all the natural beauty of the big tract. It is one of the most attractive spots in Southern California and the development work there is a great asset to Glendale. A record is being made in the sale of lots, for investors recognize the value of the property and that there is just so much of it.

ONE DAY CAUCUS

LONG BEACH, April 14.—Several hundred real estate dealers of California, from the sixth, seventh, and eighth districts of the state association, will come to Long Beach on April 30 to attend a one-day caucus.

O. A. Vickrey of Los Angeles and Henry Barbour of Long Beach will be in charge. Among the invited guests are Gov. Richardson, Senator Gates, Senator Jacob Rominger and Frank Merriam, speaker of the assembly.

"We think it a great mistake," said M. Walters of Barnum & Walters, subdividers and developers of the Sparr Heights tract, "to denude the hill sides entirely of the native shrubs and trees and to clear the level land so completely of all vegetable life that it is bare and forbidding. Upon our tract, in the level portions, on the hillsides and the summits, we have endeavored to preserve those native shrubs and trees that add beauty to the home sites.

"Californians are reckless of the great horticultural wealth of these mountains and do not realize that in eastern gardens many of the shrubs that they regard as mere brush are cherished as rare plants and prized for their beauty as well. For instance there is our ceanothus. Of course, where it grows in such profusion as to make a jungle, we clear it away, but we endeavor always to leave several specimens upon the sites, for the foliage is ever green and, in the spring, the delicate flowers of these shrubs, commonly known as the mountain lilac, are exceedingly lovely, and the blue-flowering ceanothus is already comparatively rare.

Beautiful Hillsides

"Then there are the two varieties of the rhammus, a symetrical and graceful shrub with silvery leaves, bearing red or black berries. Where it grows untouched it is apt to spread and form thickets, but properly trimmed and cared for it is a great addition to the ornamental garden, as is also the shrub commonly called the wild coffee.

"We have, too, on these hillsides the vagabond chamisa. It thrives everywhere, but a few specimens preserved in the California garden will always prove attractive, for its slender pedicles of tiny, perfect star-like blossoms are fragrant and delicate and were it uncommon instead of being as plentiful and prolific as the sagebrush, it would be considered most beautiful.

"We have all of these trees and shrubs on our slopes and summits and now and then we find a manzanita, with its mahogany colored trunk and stems and little crimson apples. Sumacs and elderberry, with their flowers and berries, are also occasional, but the oak tree is the glory of Sparr Heights.

"There is no tree that grows which is more beautiful than the California live-oak and none that is more justly prized. Even its humble relative, the scrub-oak, can be trained into a graceful and worthy tree and illy deserves the name of 'scrub' except where it has been allowed to spread unchecked.

Oaks Are Preserved

"The oaks on our tract have been preserved in their native beauty, and in every portion of the subdivision there are charming oak clusters and groves which add much to its attraction. Some of these groves are delightful avenues of shade and verdure and some of them grow upon the slopes so regularly placed and so perfect in shape that they look almost like an orchard planted by the hand of man.

"Other of our oak groves have beautiful native shrubs interspersed between the trees and all are delightful places to rest or picnic, for the observer, resting beneath their shadow, may view the panorama of valley and mountains visible from every part of the tract.

"I am a lover of our native trees and realize that they are an asset so valuable that they should be preserved. Every attention bestowed upon them is gratefully recompensed by these wild forest children. I am a lover, too, of our California flora of every kind, and it seems to me to be a great callousness to beauty that will allow the destruction of such of them as I have mentioned and especially of the native holly, now so scarce on account of careless or ruthless vandalism.

"So grubbing up and consigning to the flames of the entire verdure of valley or hillside is a great mistake. Of course, roads must be cut and the land cleared of jungle, and that we do in Sparr Heights, but we have not that spirit of commercialism that condemns to death the verdant beauty of our valleys and hillsides.

"We find that the esthetic home-seeker deplores the denuding of the land as much as we do. They realize that beauty is not bare ground, and that neither is beauty straight lines of roadway always crossing at right angles regardless of the nature of the terrain. When the contour of the hills is followed, as in our plans for this tract, and the trees preserved, as we do here, utilitarianism unites with beauty to form the perfect concept."

SUBDIVISIONS WIN

Figures show that sub-divisions in or near the city of Glendale prove the most popular among investors. The fame of Glendale helps to sell the lots, declare experts.

BUYERS GRAB UP SANITARIUM LOTS

Eighty Per Cent Sold Within Two Days of Opening, Says Subdivider

Within forty-eight hours from the time that the sale opened on the lots in the Glendale Sanitarium business tract, eighty per cent of the sites had been sold and, according to Guy M. Rush who handled the sale, these were expected to be sold within another few days on account of the many prospects who are calling for information.

"If it were not that the Glendale Sanitarium felt the necessity of making a clean sale of the entire property, I believe they would have reserved the remaining lots as an investment for the Sanitarium," says Guy M. Rush. "But, inasmuch as the erection of their new group of buildings is rapidly progressing, they want every lot sold and have instructed us to dispose of every one of the remaining few lots at prices below the market. This is, indeed, an opportunity for those who seek a good investment.

"The [illegible] we offered as such low prices is rare and seldom if ever offered in open sale. In fact, out of the entire [illegible] we have [illegible] directly in the center of the city and on one of its principal business streets. The value of this site was evident to men who know values, judging from the sales which were consummated by realty operators and brokers both on their own accounts and for their clients in this tract.

"I believe that we set a new record in quick disposal of business property in the thriving neighboring cities around Los Angeles in this sale.
